MEMBERS OF THREE FAMILIES DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE

Men, Women and Nine Children Taken Down Ladders or Led to Safety When Fire Sends Suffocating Clouds of Smoke Through Tenement Block in Market Street at Early Hour This Morning

Women and children, scantily clad, were taken down ladders and led to safety early this morning when fire sent suffocating volumes of dense smoke through tenements located above stores in the building at the corner of Market and Dummer streets. Firemen, policemen and passers-by united in saving the lives of a dozen persons cut off by smoke and so rapidly did the flames spread through the frame structure that the apparatus was summoned by two alarms from Box 113.

Striking musicians, homeward bound from a social that had extended beyond the midnight hour, discovered the fire and assumed the roles of impromptu heroes in arousing the tenants and sounding the alarm. This was shortly after 2:30 a. m. At that time flames were sweeping through the basement of the fruit and confectionery store of Sokorolis Bros. at the Dummer street end of the building. William Paul McCarthy, orchestra leader, ran to Box 113 and pulled in an alarm. With the arrival of the apparatus, Chief Edward P. Saunders ordered a second alarm.

The neighborhood was quickly aroused and the situation made more alarming by the cries of horror from men, women and children occupying small tenement quarters above the corner stores that appeared to be smothering with fire and filled with dense volumes of heavy smoke of the suffocating kind.

Sergeant Sam Birelow and Patrolman John Murphy, among the first to reach the fire, assisted Lieut. John P. Ambrose and his men of Protective No. 1 (motor) company in rescuing women and children from second and third floors of the tenement section of the building. The work was performed without a mishap, Lieut. Ambrose said.

DIES IN STREET CAR ON POLICE WARN AGAINST WAY TO HIS WORK

Charles G. Anderson of 115 Hastings street died suddenly this morning while on board a Lowell-bound North Chelmsford car, due in the square at 5:30 o'clock. Mr. Anderson was a regular passenger on this car and it was not until the car reached the square that the operator saw anything unusual in his condition. On stopping the car in the square he turned around and noticed Anderson was ill and notified the starter, who immediately called the ambulance. When the ambulance arrived Mr. Anderson was dead and his body was removed to George W. Hensley's undertaking rooms at 338 Westford street.

Mr. Anderson was for the past six or seven years the janitor of the Bradley block, and although an old man, none of the tenants of the building had noticed any signs of sickness about him. He was 72 years of age, and leaves a wife, Mrs. Lillian E. Anderson; one daughter, Lillian P. Anderson; and a brother in Stockholm, Sweden. He was a member of Doric Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Monson, Me., and Puritan Chapter No. 51, Order of the Eastern Star.

SNOW, SLEET AND RAIN TODAY'S WEATHER GIFT

A healthy storm of snow, sleet and rain of moderate intensity but with possibilities, succeeded out of the south-east this morning, gave Lowell a taste of old-time March storms and semi-blizzard conditions made famous by the forefathers who needed March weather news with goosebumps and squirrel howlings. Only today's blow that brought every variation of a spring storm's heat assaults, indicated that this section of New England was in the "central snow zone" and due for a solid recurrence of winter's best offerings.

Starting with a drizzling rain, the storm incubators developed a lively

BOGUS CHECK WORKER

The chief of police of Hartford, Ct., has sent out a warning to police departments throughout New England and to merchants in the same district, especially lumber dealers, to watch out for a clever check forger who has operated in several sections of northeastern United States under the names of M. M. Seeder, William H. Geer, Robt. S. Wood and R. R. Wade.

The man is about 55 years old, five feet, six inches tall, weighs about 140 pounds, smooth face, yellow complexion and has dark hair lined with gray. When operating in Hartford he was always dressed well and was a fluent talker.

If a mode of operation is to call on a lumber dealer and order a bill of goods, paying with a certified and countersigned check, he using a stamp for the certification and countersigning.

A warrant for his arrest has been issued in Hartford, and if a man answering the above description and working in the above manner calls on any lumber dealer, the dealer is requested to notify the police station at once and endeavor to hold the man until a police officer arrives.

PHILIP BOGDONOFF ON WITNESS STAND IN OWN BEHALF

Says Receipt of So-Called "Black Hand" Postal Cards Not the Reason for Increasing Business Insurance But Admits He Thought They Might Have Had Some Connection With Fires on Night of Nov. 14

Philip Bogdonoff, one of the Bogdonoff brothers being tried for arson at the criminal session of the superior court, denied at this morning's session that he doubled the insurance on the stock of the Merrimack square store as a result of alleged "black hand" cards he received. Mr. Bogdonoff stated that the extra amount of insurance on the store was taken after the Willis' store across the way had been destroyed by fire.

He further stated that the alleged black-hand cards were received some time after the insurance had been increased, but stated that the morning after the fires he put two and two together and believed that the cards might have some connection with the fires.

EIGHT GERMANS KILLED BY FRENCH —MARTIAL LAW AT BUER

Recklinghausen District Faces Severe Penalties Following Killing of Two Frenchmen—Serious Clashes Break Out—Premiers of France and Belgium Hold Important Conference on Ruhr

DUESSELDORF, March 12. (By the Associated Press.)—The Recklinghausen district today faced severe penalties for what was perhaps the most serious incident of the Franco-Belgian occupation—the killing at Buer of 14, Colijn of the chausseurs and 21 July, director of the Buer railroad station.

French officials indicated that Buer would be placed under what will amount to martial law, in addition to a fine of 100,000,000 marks. The persons who did the shooting have not been apprehended.

At the opening of today's session, Philip Bogdonoff was recalled to the witness stand and was cross-examined by District Attorney Reading. Witness said seven days prior to the fire, he deposited $4500 in the bank. Questioned about the assessed value of the property in Bridge street, he said the only time he ever discussed that was with Mr. Campbell when he purchased the building.

He was asked if he has any memoranda relative to the amounts he has invested in the various stores and he replied in the negative. Witness said his money in the stores had been allowed to accumulate three or four years. He was asked how much the partners had invested in the three other-stores after the opening of the No. 12 Bridge street store and he said he did not know. He was again asked how much money was tied up

MAYOR WILL VOTE TO ELECT FIRST MAN ON LIST AS AUDITORIUM CUSTODIAN

Mayor John J. Donovan, ex officio member of the board of trustees of the Lowell Memorial Auditorium, emphatically stated this morning that he will vote for the first name on the civil service list of eligibles for the position of Auditorium custodian, should the matter come before the board for consideration at its meeting tonight.

Tonight's meeting has been called by Charles H. Hobson, chairman of the board, who stated that the matter of electing a custodian at this meeting is optional with the board at present, if the election does take place, however, the custodian will be chosen from a revised list of civil service eligibles made public by the commission and headed by the names of Harry F. O'Sullivan, Richard Preston and Collin H. MacKenzie in the order named. Mr. MacKenzie is the present holder of the position.

While the name of Harry F. O'Sullivan heads the revised list, the trustees are not obligated to cast their vote for number one man, as the civil service regulations state that any one of the first three candidates is eligible to attain the appointment.

CLEARING DECKS FOR PUTNAM BILL

Another Battle on Civil Service Measure Forecasted in Senate Tuesday

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 12.—Another skirmish will occur in the senate late Tuesday when the bill which would wipe out civil service protection for laborers in large cities throughout the state will come up on the question of congressional ratification. Several amendments have now been added to the bill. The measure which was filed by Senator Frank D. Putnam of Lowell, was reported by the committee on public ser-

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOT IN BACK OF PUTNAM BILL

Pres. Edward Fisher Says Statement and Charges Made by Sunday Paper Absolutely Fake—No Action of Any Kind Taken in Reference to Measure, Nor Has It Been Discussed by Directors, He Declares

Pres. Edward Fisher of the Lowell chamber of commerce received several inquiries today relative to an article published in MacKenzie's Sunday paper, charging that the chamber of commerce is behind the bill of Senator Frank D. Putnam, which would exempt city laborers from the operation of the civil service laws.

To a Sun reporter Mr. Fisher, in discussing the matter this morning, said: "My attention has been called to an article published yesterday in a local Sunday paper which, to say the least, is an attack upon the chamber of commerce so groundless and vicious that it cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed."

Among other things the article says: "The chamber of commerce is taking another crack at the city laborers. This time it is through the so-called Putnam bill now before the legislature to take civil service (seniority) rights away from city employees. The Putnam bill is really a chamber of commerce bill. It will be forced through the senate and legislature if money and influence can do it."

"That statement is absolutely false and without any foundation whatsoever," said Mr. Fisher. "The chamber of commerce has taken no action on the Putnam bill. The bill has not been brought up at any of the directors' meetings. If any action were to be taken upon a measure of that kind by the body, it would be through a referendum, but no referendum was taken. I have not even heard the bill discussed by the members of the chamber individually so that to say the chamber of commerce is behind this bill is mere fabrication."

JACKSON, Tenn., March 12.—Twenty persons are reported killed and 15 injured in the vicinity of Pinson, Tenn., 12 miles south of Jackson by the storm which swept over that section last night.

A number of dead and injured are negroes. About 50 dwellings about Pinson were wrecked, according to meagre reports received here.

A freight train was blown from the track in that vicinity. Only minor property damage occurred here.

Relief parties were sent from Jackson and plans were made to bring the injured to hospitals in this city. Wire communication with Pinson is cut off.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

NEAR RIOT AT BANK SUMMARY OF EARLY INDIAN LEADER URGES MORNING A. P. NEWS CO-OPERATION

Closing Angers Depositors—Streets Thronged—Owners Disappear

NEW YORK, March 12.—Weeping women and children, with scowling, swarthy men, muttering dire threats, thronged the streets near the private bank of Vincenzo Tisho and brothers in the lower East Side yesterday, pleading for the return of their life savings, believed to have been taken by the three Tisho brothers, who have disappeared.

Some had been on the "death watch" at the bank since the first news Saturday that the trio had disappeared, taking with them, apparently, the $2,000,000 the bank was believed to have on deposits. Each hour added to the crowd, excited Italians from New Jersey, Connecticut, Staten Island and other points, joining in the confusion and sporadically making attempts to enter the bank, despite a strong guard of police and detectives.

It was a motley crowd, women with tattered raincoats, men in overalls, while here and there, a man or woman in evening dress.

One couple, however, broke through the police cordon and pounded on the locked doors frantically until led away. They had $950 on deposit—their savings of 20 years and had only $1.50 remaining, the man said.

Meanwhile, police headquarters were busy on various clues and yesterday called Italian police authorities to arrest the Tishos should they arrive there by steamer. Francesco Tisho, police believe, has sailed for Italy on the liner Taurinina, while the movements of Vincenzo, the head of the firm and Vito, missing since Thursday, have not been traced.

Scores of depositors visited headquarters and told of the amounts they had on deposit. The sums varied from a few dollars to $17,000, which a man, claiming to be related to the Tisho family, said he had advanced to help start the business years ago.

GAYA, India, March 12.—Violence defies the aims of freedom, and non-violent non-cooperation is the best path for India to travel to gain self-rule, is the opinion of C. R. Das, president of the Indian national congress, recently in session here. He upheld vigorously the ideal of self-government, and asked what was the ideal Indians should set up before them.

"It is nationalism," he declared, "but what is nationalism? It is, I conceive, a process through which a nation expresses itself, not in isolation from other nations, but in opposition to other nations, but as part of a great scheme by which, in seeking its own expression and therefore its own identity, it materially assists the self-expression and self-realization of other nations as well. Diversity is as real as unity. And in order that the unity of the world may be established, it is essential that each nationality should proceed on its own line and find fulfillment in self-expression and self-realization."

"The only method by which freedom can be attained in India is the method of non-violent non-cooperation. We are here on the eve of great changes. The victory of Kemal Pasha has broken the bonds of Asia, and she is all astir with life. The stir within every European country for the real freedom of the people has also worked a marvellous transformation in the mentality of subject races. That which was more or less a matter of ideal has now come within the range of practical politics. The Indian nation has found its bearings."

"There is no royal road to freedom, and dark and difficult will be the path leading to it. But dauntless is your courage, and firm your resolution, and though there will be reverses, they will only have the effect of speeding your emancipation from the bondage of a foreign government. The success of the movement is assured."

Missions Announced at St. Patrick's and Immaculate Conception

Rev. H. L. Blunt to Lecture on Irish Poetry at Sacred Heart

A two weeks' mission, under the direction of the Oblate Fathers, opened in St. Patrick's church last evening with an unusually large congregation of women present. The regular mission exercises, consisting of mass in the morning, and rosary, benediction and sermon in the evening, will be continued throughout the week to conclude with the papal blessing and solemn benediction next Sunday afternoon. The men's mission will open Sunday night next and will be brought to a close with the customary exercises the following Sunday. The morning masses during the week will be celebrated at 8.30 and 7.45 o'clock with brief religious instruction after the last mass. Evening devotions will begin at 7.30. The following Oblates will have charge of services: Rev. William J. Kerwin, O.M.I., Rev. Robert J. McElroy, O.M.I., Rev. Albert F. McDermott, O.M.I., and Rev. James J. O'Sullivan, O.M.I.

It was announced at all the masses in St. Patrick's yesterday that a solemn high mass in honor of the feast day of the patron saint of the church will be celebrated next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Following the mass, ground will be broken for the new parochial residence at the corner of Suffolk and Cross streets.

The annual men's mission in the Immaculate Conception church will begin next Sunday, and will consist of the usual exercises, devotions being scheduled for every morning and evening. A high mass in honor of St. Patrick will be celebrated Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. The Immaculate Conception society will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

This morning at 8.30 o'clock a month's mind high mass was celebrated in memory of Rev. John M. McElroy, O.M.I., former pastor.

At the 8.30 o'clock mass in St. Peter's church, yesterday, members of the Mathew Temperance Institute received communion in a body. Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph.D., pastor, and chaplain of the society, addressed the members after the mass. There will be a meeting of the Propagation of the Faith society Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock. A solemn high mass will be sung in honor of St. Patrick next Saturday at 9 o'clock.

The Holy Name society of St. Michael's church received communion in a body in that church at the 8 o'clock mass yesterday morning. The regular meeting of the society was held in the evening at 8.30. There will be a meeting of the Immaculate Conception society in the lower church tomorrow evening. Next Sunday is communion Sunday for the sodality. St. Michael's church guild will meet in the Guild hall, Sixth street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The St. Patrick's day mass in this church will be sung at 9 o'clock.

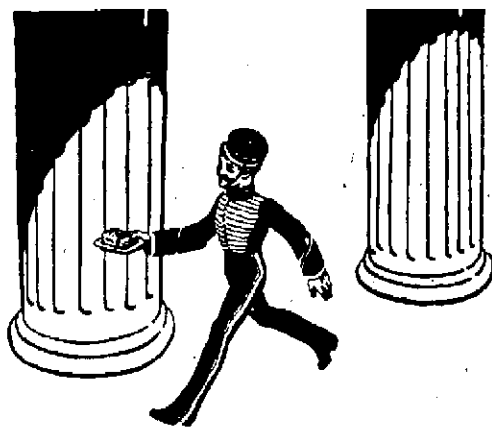

The senior and junior branches of the Holy Name society received communion at the 7.30 o'clock mass in the Sacred Heart church yesterday. It was announced at all the masses that the Stations of the cross will be held on Thursdays of this week instead of Friday. This is due to the fact that Rev. Hugh L. Blunt of Cambridge will speak in the school hall on Friday evening, making as his subject, "Irish Verse and Music." A high mass in honor of St. Patrick will be sung Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

In connection with the usual Lenten devotions in St. Columba's church next Wednesday evening. Rev. John F. Welch of St. Francis' church, South Braintree, will preach. Rev. Fr. Welch has the reputation of being an excellent pulpit orator and a large attendance is expected at the services. At 7 o'clock Saturday morning, a mass will be celebrated in honor of St. Patrick.

At St. Margaret's church Saturday morning, the mass in honor of St. Patrick will be celebrated at 7.30 o'clock. The regular Lenten devotions will be continued this week on Wednesday and Friday evenings.

WOMEN'S TENNIS SINGLES
BROOKLINE, March 12.—Playing in the national women's indoor tennis singles championships was scheduled to begin at the courts of the Longwood Cricket club here today, with Miss Leslie Bancroft of West Newton a favorite for titular honors. Miss Bancroft was to meet Mrs. J. B. Corbier of Cambridge in the first round. Other matches that promised stiff competition were those between Mrs. B. E. Cole of North Andover, and Miss Brenda Hedstrom of Buffalo, N. Y., and between Mrs. Frank H. Godfrey of Boston and Miss C. E. Baker of East Orange, N. J.

Clearing Decks for Putnam Bill

vice and after a torrid debate was ordered to a third reading by a vote of 13 to 12.

The bill has been amended by the committee on bills in third reading. The amendment is aimed to protect the veterans who at present have preference in the matter of employment as laborers in the public service. The bill as it passed the senate wiped out the protection to the war veterans as well as to all others. Following is the amendment:

"The selectmen and the city council shall take any necessary action to secure the employment of veterans in the labor service of their respective cities and towns in preference to all other persons, except women."

Senator John W. McCormack has also offered a further amendment which provides that nothing in the bill shall affect "any person who at the time the same takes effect, occupied any position to which chapter 31 (the civil service law) of the general laws was then applicable."

For once the civil service authorities and the American Legion are united. They both oppose the bill. Usually they are fighting over the question of veterans' preference but in this case they are both firm in their belief that the measure ought to be killed.

Accordingly they will write their strength with that of the labor group in attempt to have the measure killed. It is not expected that will be very successful in the senate but they have hopes of having the house throw the bill out.

The American Legion officials are inclined to believe that the bill is an indirect drive to weaken the power of the veterans' organization by some of the legislators. Even the amendment offered by the committee on bills in third reading, to allow the selectmen and the city council the right to give preference to veterans in their discretion, is looked upon with suspicion, because of the fact that Senator Walter Shubert, an outspoken opponent of veterans' preference, is a member of the committee.

While vigorous opposition to the bill will be offered in the house after it is engrossed in the senate, which beyond a doubt will occur, there is nevertheless a group in the lower body which is keen to pass the bill.

If they can secure the support of the representatives who come from the small towns and cities that are not affected by the measure there is more than a possibility that the bill will be passed by the house. There are also a considerable number of representatives who come from sections of the state where there is an instinctive opposition to labor and when they see labor opposing a bill, naturally vote for it.

Philip Bogdonoff on Witness Stand

In the business after the new partnership was formed in November, 1922, "I cannot tell you that. I can simply tell you how much cash was put into the business," was the reply.

Witness said there was an appraisal of the stock made before the new partnership was formed.

The district attorney then read questions and answers from the fire hearing and Mr. Bogdonoff changed his testimony by saying no appraisal of the stock has been made for a period of seven years.

"When did you first learn which store was the best paying?" asked Mr. Reading.

"About a year after the opening of the Bridge street store in Centralville."

"Did you testify before us to the best paying store?"

"Yes."

"Was that a matter of guess work?"

"No, sir."

Mr. Bogdonoff then stated that the firm knew all along which store was best paying.

"After the fire you knew which store was best paying?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Bogdonoff said that after the fire a salvage company visited the store and it was found that some stock had not been destroyed. He said it might have amounted to $1,000. He stated that the stock was sold at auction and the sale did not bring in $2,000.

"Have you ever been able to figure the profits of the stores in dollars and cents?"

"No, sir."

"Then you never knew which store paid the best?"

"I never knew at the end of the year by receipts and expenses. Just how we stood."

Witness said that in February, 1922, an appraisal of the Bridge street store was taken and another appraisal was taken after the fire. He further stated that as a result of a fire in the vicinity of the Bridge street store was doubled.

"When was it that Mr. Campbell told you that you were over-insured?"

"I do not remember."

"After doubling your insurance did you do anything to prevent fire?"

"No, sir."

"Did you allow your employees to smoke on the premises?"

"No, we did not."

Mr. Bogdonoff said at one time there was a fire in the store and as a result an order was given to employees not to smoke on the premises, but he was not sure that the order was lived up to. Referring to a card bearing threats which he received some time ago, he said he feared something would happen, but he did not know what. "After the fire," he said, "I put two and two together and suspected that the fire and card had some connection."

He denied that the card was responsible for the increase of insurance on the store stock.

Witness said he did not show the card to anyone until after the fire, at which time he felt that the card did mean something.

"How many cards did you receive?"

"Only one."

"Do you want to leave the impression in the jury that the card did not impress you at all?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Bogdonoff then stated that he received another card, but that, too, did not impress him and he did not take any extra fire precautions. He further stated that the cards were received a long while after the Bridge street insurance was increased.

Mr. Reading asked if the store at Kearney square had several competitors and the reply was in the affirmative witness giving the names of the different markets.

Witness was asked how often he visited his stores and he replied "every day."

"How many stores did you visit on the evening of Nov. 17?"

"Two the one in Gorham street and the one at 370 Bridge street."

Witness added that the visits were made to inspect the stock. He said his visit lasted but a few minutes.

"How long were you in the Bridge street store?"

"Not more than five minutes."

"Where were you going that night?"

"To Boston."

Mr. Bogdonoff denied having dis-

BITTER FIGHT ON AGAINST RETURN OF NATIONAL BANK TAXES PAID SINCE 1916

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, March 12.—Because the cities and towns of Massachusetts in which national banks are located would be obliged to return to them an aggregate of nearly $15,000,000, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston is endeavoring to enlist the support of officials of the leading cities in the fight the city of Boston is making to defeat the attempt of the banks to recover the money they have paid.

Commenting on the matter, Mayor Curley today issued a long statement in which he says:

"The great struggle over the national bank taxes is entering another stage, perhaps the final stage. Shall the commonwealth and its cities and towns be compelled to pay back to the national banks the taxes they have paid in the six years since the income tax law of 1916 was passed, or will they prevail against the national banks' contention and be saved from the necessity of raising twelve to fifteen millions on loans that would burden the taxpayers for the next 20 years? These are momentous questions for the public, although they mean comparatively little to the rich and powerful banks which are suing the commonwealth and its municipalities.

The public, already overburdened with debt, would be seriously affected by a new debt of twelve to fifteen millions, incurred to repay money collected as taxes on the banks, and that has been spent for the maintenance of libraries, hospitals, schools, streets, sewers and other public purposes. The banks, on the other hand, paid these millions as taxes out of the earnings left over after they had already paid good dividends to their shareholders and had carried large sums to the account of surplus and undivided profits. There can be no question as to who would be hurt more by an unfavorable decision, for while the average taxpayer is sweating under his burdens throughout the war and during its aftermath the national banks were enjoying at the same time the greatest prosperity they had ever known.

"The same issue is pending in Vermont, in Minnesota, in New York and in other states. New York has even gone at stake than Massachusetts, that all the states affected feel the situation keenly, and are doing their utmost to prevent the necessity of further burdening the general taxpayers in order to put more money into the coffers of the national banks.

Hunter Killed by Wounded Mother Wolf

FLORENCE, Italy, March 12.—A story of a hunter in the Apennine mountains believed to have been killed by a wounded mother wolf reached here today. The man with a companion, met the hunger driven animal on a range between this city and the Adriatic sea. One of the hunters shot the beast, wounding her badly, and the two then followed the back trail to a den in the mountains where they found several young wolves. One of the hunters took the cubs home to the village of Marsadi, leaving his friend to shoot the mother when she would return home. Evidently the man missed his aim, for his body was found horribly mutilated near the empty den.

Woburn Man, Shot by Brother, Dies

WOBURN, March 12.—James Brewer, who was shot after a quarrel with his brother Frank in Burlington, on March 4, died at a hospital here today. Frank Brewer has been held under $10,000 bonds on a charge of assault with intent to kill and the authorities said that the charge would be changed to murder. A hearing had been set for today. After shooting Frank, Brewer fled into the woods. When a posse of citizens cornered him behind a chicken house he slashed his wrists with a penknife, but the wound was slight.

BIG ROUNDUP OF IRISH SUSPECTS

LONDON, March 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The swift and silent raid upon Irish suspects in Great Britain has created something of a sensation here and developments are awaited with much curiosity.

Judging from the customary reticence of the Free State government, however, it seems unlikely that much information will be given to the public. The prisoners are being lodged in Irish jails. The statement which is expected in the British House of Commons today will perhaps fill the gaps in the story.

Official announcements both here and in Ireland put the total number of prisoners at 35, but some of the press reports suggest a larger number. One of the features of the roundup was its widespread character. London, Glasgow and Liverpool, all of which have Irish communities, were raided, but places very far from these cities furnished their quota of captives. Prisoners were taken in towns on the east coast of England and Scotland as far north as Aberdeen.

Sean Mahoney, a member of the Dail, is said to be among the prisoners. It is stated that the arrests in England were made under an order signed by Home Secretary Bridgeman. This order, issued under date of March 7, cited the defense of the realm and the restoration of order in Ireland. The former is the only one of which so much was heard during and after the war. The arrests in Scotland were apparently made under the authority of an order signed by the secretary for Scotland, Charles Macleod. The order was heard during and after the war. The arrests in Scotland were apparently made under the authority of an order signed by the secretary for Scotland, Charles Macleod. The order was heard during and after the war.

WHOLESALE ARRESTS OF MEN AND WOMEN

LONDON, March 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The arrests of many Irishmen and Irish women in various parts of the country were made on charges formulated by the Irish Free State and in concert with it, but, according to the Daily Mail, the plot in which those arrested were accused of being concerned was a plot against the king and the state, as well as an attempt to overthrow the Free State government.

More than 30 persons were arrested in London and 31 in Scotland, chiefly Glasgow.

All the prisoners in London and the provinces were hurried in special trains to Liverpool, where they were put aboard a cruiser, which immediately headed for Dublin. Another cruiser carried those arrested in Scotland.

Other accounts in no wise confirm the Daily Mail's assertion that there was a plot against the king and the state but contend that it was purely an Irish affair, the charge in effect being conspiracy against the Free State, including run-running.

Those arrested in Glasgow, according to the Daily Express were presented a paper signed by the secretary for Scotland, Charles Macleod, which charged them with being concerned in a plot to overthrow the Free State government.

35 Irish Rebels Arrested
GLASGOW, Scotland, March 12.—An official police statement issued today says that 35 Irish rebels were arrested in Scotland over the weekend. Twenty-eight of the rebels were taken in this city. Several are alleged to have been leading organizers of the Irish republican army.

LOCAL D. A. R. MEMBERS EVINCE SURPRISE

Numerous Lowell Daughters of the American Revolution received a startling surprise today when informed by a Sun representative that a scout-patrol car of white porcelain had just been started in and outside of D. A. R. circles to assist the candidacy of Mrs. Joshua Brooks of Springfield, Mass., who is conducting a vigorous battle with typewritten stationery broadsides to capture the mayor's generalship of the national D. A. R. this year.

This morning various members of Molly Warren, Old Bay State and Lydia Darnall chapters, D. A. R., interviewed, declared they knew not a thing about the body from Springfield, so far as her connection with D. A. R. office candidacy affairs was concerned. Others remembered the would be mayor general as a former member of Mercy Warren chapter of Springfield, one of the largest chapters in the Bay State.

One quizzical member of Old Bay State chapter declared that the Springfield body was "scurrying in quite early" and said she had not before learned that the Mrs. Brooks named had aspirations for high office in the national department. It was intimated that "press work" alone would not win the nomination desired.

The "news" item that reached The Sun today came ostensibly from one Larry J. Brown, 15 East 10th street, New York City, and was in genuine staple press-out form—entirely typewritten, worded and punctuated and marked at the top of column with the usual "For Release"—so-and-so.

According to the press notice, Mrs. Joshua Brooks' candidacy "will be announced at the state conference (of the D. A. R.) to be held in Boston this week, when the Massachusetts chapters are to rally, March 13-14, to elect state officers for the year and also announce their preference for national officers for 1923.

The press notice above mentioned qualifies Mrs. Brooks of Springfield as one of the best known members of the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution, who will go on the ticket of Mrs. William Cummings Story, who is a candidate for president general." Mrs. Brooks, the notice further states, is "ex-president of the Mercy Warren chapter, D. A. R., of Springfield, the largest chapter in the state. She is also state chairman of the Women's National Committee, league and is active generally in patriotic work."

PUPPY SHOW TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

The Lowell Kennel club will hold an all breed puppy show for puppies under 12 months, on Wednesday evening, March 14, at the old Fellows hall in Middlesex street.

The feature of the evening will be the winning of the Fowler trophy, which will be awarded to the best puppy in the show. This trophy has been offered by Mr. Bell and is now in the possession of Mrs. Kirkpatrick, whose Boston Terrier won it last year.

PROBE REPORT 6000 CASES OF WHISKEY SMUGGLED IN SUNDAY

Dry Officials Hear 100 Small Boats, Plying Between Jersey Coast Towns and Rum Armada, Landed Cargoes Yesterday—Names of 50 Army, Navy and Marine Corps Officers on List Seized in Raid at Washington Being Investigated

NEW YORK, March 12.—Federal prohibition officials are investigating reports published today by the New York Herald that no less than 6000 cases of whiskey were smuggled into the country yesterday by more than 1000 small boats plying between Jersey coast towns and the rum armada.

An ideal day for rum-running, the little boats that ply between ships and shore worked away unmolested. It was reported to the dry agents. There was every evidence that the spring whiskey drive was on, according to the newspaper. The thousands of cases transported from the rum fleet serenely bobbing on the waters of Highland light were piled on beaches or on piers in creek and river mouths up and down the coast. A few minutes after the coast was reached, motor trucks and four cars whizzed up, gangs of men hustled the cases aboard and the cargoes soon were on their way to New York, Trenton, Philadelphia, Newark, Jersey City, Asbury Park and other places.

It was a busy day, observers reported. The small army of men who make up the ship-stores and shore-to-shore and of the gigantic smuggling game went to work early and remained late.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The series of bootlegger raids which in recent weeks has brought the national capital sharply into the limelight of the war of enforcement authorities against liquor law violations has culminated in an order to army and navy intelligence officers to investigate the appearance of names and addresses of more than 50 army, navy and marine corps officers in a list seized in a raid March 3.

The list, as published today in the Washington Post, contains more than 400 names and was seized in a raid on the home of James M. Connor, arrested on the charge of illegal possession and selling of liquor after the confiscation of liquors valued at $1000. Connor, who the police declare, was one of the chief sources of bootleg liquor supply in Washington, has made no statement in his home was the only evidence to connect it with his alleged liquor operations.

Lieut. O. T. Davis, chief of the police vice squad, who led the raid on Connor's home, was said already to have turned over the list of names to the army and navy intelligence officers.

The list, except in few instances, gave only the last name and address in the entries. The rank of the army, navy and marine officers included, however, was indicated in each instance. These names included half a dozen high ranking naval officers and several of high grade in the army.

The police declared at the time of the raid also that about six of the names were of persons who were known to be in the city at the time of the raid.

The list, except in few instances, gave only the last name and address in the entries. The rank of the army, navy and marine officers included, however, was indicated in each instance. These names included half a dozen high ranking naval officers and several of high grade in the army.

Haverhill War Veteran Found Dead

HAVERHILL, March 12.—Joseph Debroski, aged 30, World war veteran, was accidentally asphyxiated at his home this morning. His eight-year-old step-daughter Mary Kelley who left home yesterday noon with her mother, returned home this morning and found him dead in bed. Gas was escaping from an unlighted gas heater. Debroski, according to his wife, had been drinking yesterday. The medical examiner pronounced it a case of suicide but Mrs. Debroski says her husband either committed suicide or was murdered. She threatened to commit suicide today.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Slightly Improved

NEWPORT, R. I., March 12.—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt was reported from Sandy Point farm this morning as being slightly improved. While the attending physicians could not be located this morning, last evening Dr. Stewart, one of them, indicated that Mrs. Vanderbilt had been very sick and would be abed for two weeks if complications do not set in. At the farm this morning it was admitted that the case had been more serious than at first given out.

Official Organ of Vatican Denies Report

LONDON, March 12.—A Rome despatch to the Times says that the Osservatore Romano, the official organ to the Vatican, officially denies a recent report that the pope had instructed the archbishop of Messina to convey his best wishes to Premier Mussolini. The journal says that when the Vatican thinks it necessary to speak it does not do so "on incidental occasions and in indirect ways."

Oldest Episcopal Bishop in World Ill

ST. LOUIS, March 12.—The Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, 86 years old, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church in the United States, who has been ill with grippe for a week, was reported to be in a critical condition today. He is said to be the oldest Episcopal bishop in the world.

Hoover to Defend Diamond Sculls

DULUTH, Minn., March 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Walter Hoover, world champion sculler, will defend the Diamond sculls at the 1923 English regatta, it seemed certain today. Hoover said that he planned to visit England again this year.

BERNE, March 12.—Seventeen feet of snow, the heaviest fall ever recorded in Switzerland have been piled on the peak of Mount Saenets.

STIFF FINE FOR DRUNKEN AUTOMOBILE DRIVER

Benjamin Tattarnall was arraigned in district court this morning, charged with driving a machine while under the influence of liquor and received a fine of $100. Judge Wright said that he had talked with several judges of the registry of motor vehicles concerning such cases and said: "Reginald Goodwin told me the only thing that will stop this practice are direct sentences in all such cases, and it seems to me that it is the only thing to do. The superior court judges, however, that where no damage is done no person hurt, a fine is sufficient."

The case of Robert J. Brannigan and Beatrice Seal, charged with a statutory offense, was continued until the 24th of the month. The case of the defendant's counsel was investigated. They were arrested a week ago in a lodging house in Appleton street, and it was found that Brannigan had a wife and three children in Philadelphia. He claimed to be employed as a detective in the office of Flynn detective agency, and Judge Lowell decided that it would be best to give the officers an opportunity to communicate with each of the defendant's families and find out how they are situated before trying the case.

PLANS FOR BIG CLASS INITIATION

The general committee of the John M. Hogan class initiation of the Lowell Order of Eagles held a meeting Sunday afternoon at English hall. Considerable routine business was transacted. Publicity and various sub-committees read the membership program, concerning the membership drive, showing the public at large were interested in the campaign thus far.

Official notice was received from Grand Trustee Thomas H. Murphy, stating that the principal speaker at the Auditorium for this occasion would be Judge Thomas F. McDonnell and Conrad H. Mann, both of Kansas City, Mo.

It was the general belief of the committee that as the campaign is drawing to a close, members who have not secured a new applicant should do so at once and help make the drive a success. The number of applications received thus far is very gratifying to the committee. After the meeting an enjoyable concert was given.

We Do Not Recommend Allen's Lung Healer As a Cure for Consumption

But we do claim and have proven times without number that it will prevent the disease in many cases by its remarkable healing and germicidal properties. Its action on the lungs and bronchial tubes fortifies them against attack if used in season. An obstinate lung cough weakens the lungs and opens wide the door for tubercular germs to enter and find lodgment. Allen's Lung Healer cures these obstinate lung coughs, thereby preventing consumption. If your lungs are susceptible to colds, you should take the Lung Healer on the first symptoms of a cold, thereby preventing further trouble.

The street railway service was hit hard as usual, slippery rails causing frequent delays. Two of the one-man cars developed trouble on busy lines, causing further delay in the morning. A number of cars were stuck on the tracks and necessitating cars being sent to the barns.

Out on the main highways loaded with vehicles travel found in both directions, electric cars were frequently held up for many minutes by trucks on the tracks ahead. In Billerica, the service was stopped just before noon when a car was stuck in a snow drift on the main line, apparently abandoned by its driver.

Extra men were sent out duty early and plows were sent out frequently and the main lines were kept fairly clear, although trouble was found repeatedly on the "hill line" and

Why 600,000 Americans now bathe internally

9 out of 10 people are working at only half the efficiency they should enjoy—that's what science reveals.

Hundreds of recent tests have shown that 9 out of 10 men and women are suffering from constipation and "auto-intoxication"—they are carrying around inside them, at all times, large colonies of poisonous germs. Cathartics cannot remove this trouble. They bring at best only partial relief.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell devoted years of his life to a study of "Auto-intoxication". More than 600,000 men and women have benefited by his research.

Dr. Tyrrell's method was the internal bath. And for its proper and easy administration he perfected what is known as the "J.B.L. Cascade". No other method and no cathartic can do the work for which the Cascade was specifically designed.

The story of Dr. Tyrrell's research and the "how and why" of internal bathing are extremely interesting. They have been put into a book entitled "Why Man of Today Is Only 60 Per Cent Efficient". This book is free to anyone, and it should be read by every man and woman. We will be glad to mail or give you a copy of this book on request. There is no obligation involved.

AT ALL SOULS' CHURCH

Rev. Abraham M. Rihbony
Preached—Society Meetings Announced

Rev. Abraham Mittle Rihbony, pastor of the Church of the Disciples, Boston, distinguished as a student of eastern and western folk culture, expert on immigration affairs and conditions in the Near East, where he was born, appeared yesterday afternoon as speaker at the last of the present series of 4 o'clock vesper services in All Souls' church, bringing a message to Lowell religious and educational workers of timely importance.

Pastor Rihbony's record in Christian fields of endeavor is widely known. He is an author of reputation also, some of his books like "A Far Country," "The Syrian Christ," "The Treasure of Rezinola" and "The Wise Men of the East and West," being widely read and studied. The pastor's coming to Lowell yesterday was responsible for a large attendance of church members and many from outside walks of life.

OBTAINED ALL HE HAD LONGED FOR

Corbail States Tanlac Ended Stomach Trouble and Fulfilled Every Desire for Robust Health

"Tanlac has set my stomach in order and has me eating again at my old time pace. It is the enthusiastic statement of Henry E. Corbail, 37 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, Mass., well known machinist.

"I didn't take my condition seriously until I got where I had no appetite at all, which was an unusual thing for me. I made the mistake of thinking that my illness was due to indigestion, and was due to the grind of my work instead of stomach trouble. But when my food began souring on my stomach, bloating me up and causing a terrible burning sensation, I knew that my trouble was indigestion.

"What I wanted was to eat well, sleep well, and be able to put in good day's work without tiring me out, and after a short experience with Tanlac I can do all three. The medicine has made me feel just like I wanted to feel, and I am glad to tell everybody about it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

Over 35 million bottles sold.—Adv.

drawn to All Souls by previous announcement of the preacher-author's coming.

The vesper services were also notable for the offering of an unusually interesting and enjoyable program of vocal and instrumental selections by well known Boston Symphony orchestra artists.

Mrs. Laura Littlefield, one of the best known lyric sopranos in this part of the country, whose education records for the violin are widely used and prized, sang several numbers in splendid voice. She has appeared with the Boston Symphony more than a dozen times this season.

Pastor Rihbony drew his vesper sermon lesson from Ecclesiastes, wherein the latter showed that all human courses are vain, and that education is useless in their course. "There is no new thing under the sun," and also the remarkable phrase, "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity." He interpreted these expressions of Ecclesiastes as the sayings of a man whose philosophy of life was not consistent with God's teachings or the views of the Master. Since Ecclesiastes' time, continued Pastor Rihbony, Christ was born and many other men were given lives to live—lives of infinite value to God. He spoke of Europe as in distress and darkness, and wondered how Europeans today could ever find anything in the teachings of Ecclesiastes but "idle words." How would we continue in this great country of ours, the pastor went on, without the moral strength and wealth that preserves us and protects us—the word of Jesus Christ? The belief in immortality today is more extensive than in pre-Christian days, the pastor continued, when the belief in the future life was less prevalent.

The pastor characterized pessimism as an enemy of mankind. Grumbler, too, are in a class by themselves and have no sunshine to light their pathways of life. He ventured to say that hope and inspiration were futile if those who sought happiness and new life were prone to pessimistic thoughts and ideas.

MORNING SERVICE
Pastor McElferty's morning sermon topic was taken from the gospel of St. Luke, 10:27. He dwelt at length upon the reasons for maintaining human relationships of the right kind and drew illustrations of proper conduct from various examples of common knowledge. He described the power of the human brain as compared with that endowed in lowly animals, picturing the limited powers of perception of crustaceans and reptiles and describing the small brains of various familiar members of the animal kingdom as compared with man's wonderful organization of perception and understanding.

The pastor also interpreted an interesting account of man's highest aims, the values of seeking power from above at all times and the abundant relief and sustenance that comes in the acquisition of all good things when hearts are true to the best ideals.

Before delivering his sermon, the pastor addressed the children in the audience, having a special message of hope, advice and good cheer for each and every one, drawing lessons from every-day affairs in Lowell.

The attractive display of chance powers yesterday was presented in memory of Mrs. Mary P. Marden. The organist was Mrs. Helen Hamilton Taylor.

The Young People's association met at 8 p. m. the speaker being Rev. Mr. Rihbony. The supper committee included Priscilla Fox, Dorothy Mignault, Richard Fletcher and Raymond Teller. The minister's training class met in the pastor's study at 6:45 o'clock.

Pastor McElferty will give the third of his studies in American Christianity Thursday, March 15, at 7:30 p. m.

The women of the church are to have a sewing meeting Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to work on bazaar garments for the Lowell bazaar.

The Ready Workers and Service club members will meet Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The Lullaby club will meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in their clubroom.

SPLENDID PROGRAM FOR ST. PATRICK'S CONCERT

The United Irish societies of Lowell are to combine their efforts in celebrating St. Patrick's day this year and will put on a mammoth concert at the Auditorium next Sunday evening. Many of Lowell's best singers have agreed to take part in this event and it should prove to be the best of its kind ever held in Lowell. The songs will be those that are best known of Ireland's and will be sung in a manner befitting the song. Mrs. Ella Reilly Torg is in charge of the musical program and one of its features will be a quartet composed of Mrs. James A. Murphy, soprano; Mrs. Nana Gallagher Leiby, contralto; James A. Murphy, tenor; and Andrew A. McCarthy, baritone. This will be the quartet's first appearance.

MOVE TO EXTRADITE GOLDMAN TO BOSTON

BOSTON, March 12.—Robert G. Harris, United States attorney for this district, accompanied by Assistant United States Attorney John V. Sullivan left here yesterday for Chicago to argue for the removal to Boston of Abraham Goldman of that city, who financed the deal by which his son-in-law, Joseph B. Marcano, obtained control of the First National bank of Warren which subsequently was closed after the disappearance of $125,000 in securities from its vaults.

At Worcester the federal attorneys were joined by three men who will testify as witnesses at the Chicago hearing. They were Raymond D. Fletcher of Worcester, attorney for the wrecked bank; John E. Dalton, first vice president of the bank and the former assistant cashier, Norman Bell. These men also testified at the grand jury hearing here a week ago when three secret indictments were returned. It was said that the federal officers took these indictments with them to Chicago.

Frank L. Taylor, the $50 a week president of the Warren bank who was installed by Marcano, is under arrest in Chicago and is being held there as a witness at the Goldman hearing by action of Goldman's counsel. District Attorney Harris yesterday expressed the hope that both Taylor and Goldman would be brought to Boston in the near future to face charges on commissioners' warrants here.

BUICK PRESENTS 15 MOD- ELS FOR 1923

"The Buick line for 1923 consists of 15 models, giving a wide selection of body types to meet practically every requirement. Utility and luxury vie with each other, and the combination is an irresistible one, as indicated by the record-breaking demand for these cars," says Milo Hale, local Buick man.

"Motor car buyers find many outstanding features in the new Buicks. Those to whom mechanical features are paramount will approve the heavier Buick frame, the improved anti-leak spring suspension which makes the Buick ride so easy, the larger radiator core supports. These and the other mechanical points are graphically displayed by means of a wonderfully animated and revolving chassis, which is the outstanding feature of the show.

"Extensive improvements characterize Buick body construction. Heavier body cross bars are unique and effective improvements. The pillar brackets have been increased in strength, as well as front and rear seat back rails now appearing with bolt joints. Body brackets are now bolted, and the body is attached to the frame with more bolts. The cars also have heavier and stronger door locks.

"Many improvements are also found in the motor. The new motor with larger crankshaft and longer pistons adds much to the noiselessness and smoothness of the motor operation.

"An indication of the extreme care used in refining the present value-in-head motor and minuteness of detail followed by the experimental department, is illustrated in the new Buick push rods which are a combination of aluminum and steel to synchronize expansion of the metal in the push rod with the metal in the cylinders after the motor is running and the metal becomes heated.

"Women drivers who visit the show will find much that appeals to them in the Buick exhibit. With more than a passing thought for the fair ones, the Buick designers and the Fisher body corporation have incorporated many notable features. The bodies have been slung much lower. The roof presents an almost straight line to the eye and is built to prevent noise and covered with a special material to deaden sounds."

AT THE BOSTON SHOW

G. Russell Dana, Jr., and Robert J. Rutledge will be found at the Boston auto show all this week, at the Cadillac display. Here Lowell visitors will be well taken care of by these two local men.

LOWEST PRICE IN HISTORY OF FORD CAR

With many improvements in its products and the lowest prices in its history, the Ford Motor Company has started on what undoubtedly will be the banner year, says George A. Sargent, sales manager for the Forest City Motor Company, local Lincoln, Ford and Fordson dealers. For the last 10 months retail deliveries of Ford cars and trucks have exceeded the 100,000 mark, and unprecedented sales record. Demand for cars is strong in all sections of the country and there are no reserve stocks in dealers hands. Requests for cars for the month of February totaled 145,467 against a possible production of only 124,000—a shortage of over 24,000 cars with a large part of the country covered with snow.

Fordson tractor orders are several thousand ahead of production and early deliveries.

Sales on the new four sedan have so far outstripped production that dealers have been advised to promise no delivery date on this model.

Orders are being taken care of as fast as cars are received and new orders will receive the best attention more bolts.

As to the Lincoln car, Mr. Pitts offers an abstract of an interview given in Detroit last week by Edsel Ford in which he said:

"As we found it when we took it over, the Lincoln was a great achievement in automobile construction. Such improvements as have been made during the past year relate largely to the refining of certain details where our engineers believed that refinements would help.

"In the motor we have done certain things as they relate to the construction of the head, to the material used in the pistons and to the finish on certain parts which have resulted in somewhat smoother operation although the power plant as we found it was exceptionally smooth in performance.

"Bodies have come in for a great amount of attention and at the present time we have a man inspecting the various body plants building body equipment for the Lincoln. In all plants which are doing work for us we will have permanent inspectors to watch every detail of finish as the bodies are completed."

CLEANING COAT COLLARS

It is almost impossible to keep a coat collar from becoming greasy where it comes in contact with the neck, but the objectionable stain may be removed by sponging it with alcohol in which salt has been dissolved.

BIG YEAR FOR CADILLAC CAR

Cadillac cars for sales in the Dominion of Canada are being manufactured and sold there in the Oshawa plant of General Motors, Limited, at Oshawa, Ontario.

Increased demand from the big neighbor to the north of the United States, the 1923 Cadillac plans for increased production and a substantial saving to buyers of Cadillac cars throughout the Dominion are three important factors in the establishment of the new connection.

From the main factory in Detroit, members of the inspection department have been sent to the Oshawa plant to supervise the assembling of the car and to maintain the rigid standards for the type 41 which have so long been established at the main factory. The motor and other vital parts of the car to be assembled in Canada will of course continue to be built at the main Cadillac factory at Detroit.

The Canadian price reductions resulting from the establishment of the plant at Oshawa are in addition to the reductions in Detroit factory prices which became effective Dec. 1, 1922. The new award, given in England to the automobile making the greatest advance in the world during the current year, was awarded in two different years, (1922 and 1923) to the Cadillac. It was the first and is the only American car to receive such recognition abroad, and it is the only car of any kind to be so honored twice.

Some of Cadillac's earliest pioneers are still with the organization. H. H. H. president and general manager, sold the first Cadillac "one-lunger" exhibited at the New York auto show. Furthermore, many of the Old Guard, Cadillac's famous organization of distributors, began their service in the company during the one-lunger days.

Frank Johnson, at present engineer in charge of design at the Cadillac Motor Car company, was in 1902 the chief draftsman who drew up the plans for the first one-cylinder car, and has had an important part in the design of practically every new Cadillac built since that time. Cadillac has many men who have served continuously for 20 years.

GETTING OFF MUD

Mud stains that are difficult to remove often yield gracefully when confronted with a cut raw potato. Or you can grate the raw potato and add the same amount of water. When the mixture has settled, strain off the liquid and use it to sponge spots with. Then press on the wrong side.

TEED FOR KNIGHT SIX

Tangible, visible proof that the new R&V Knight Six will live up to all claims made for it by its makers is given by the tamper-proof seal which now closes every R&V Knight Six Engine when it leaves the factory.

For two years, so the R&V Motor company says, this engine should run, absolutely without trouble of any kind. No mileage figures are specified—the purchaser is entitled to drive his R&V Knight as far as he can in 730 days. So long as he gives it water, gas and oil, he is assured of complete satisfaction and uninterrupted service.

"Such a move might be called spectacular," says H. A. Holder, president of the R&V Motor company. "If it were not backed up by facts, we have taken this step after very careful investigation of the past performance of R&V Knights in the hands of owners. Two years is a conservative estimate. If we did not feel fully convinced that practically every car would go far beyond this limit, we would never dare to give the absolute guarantee which goes with every engine when it leaves the factory."

The R & V Motor company has been building Knight engines for automobiles since 1913. For four years their was the only Knight six motor car in America. The new R & V Knight Six engine shown for the first time at the New York Show, is the outgrowth of nine years of experience with the Knight type engine, and this engine, we believe to be the best all around automobile engine ever built.

ORGANIZE RAILWAYS FOR WAR SERVICE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Names of American railway systems will hereafter appear in the military designations of battalions of railway engineers now being recruited as a part of the organized reserves. Under the new plan employees of the various systems who join the battalions would of the organized reserves. Under the command of men who directed their work in peace times, and united they would carry with them into the active army the team work developed during years of association and the names of the railways from which they came.

The plan was suggested to the war department by Lieutenant Colonel W. G. Arn, of the Illinois Central railroad, who is an engineer reserve officer and served in France during the war with the 13th railway engineers, reaching his present rank. Previously the reserve program called for organization of the railway unit by corps areas, and without regard to the railway system, the battalions to be filled up with men of railway experience as they might apply.

The new plan relieves the railway battalions from corps area restrictions, the personnel to be drawn from the entire railway system to which the unit is allotted.

It would be the business of these battalions to operate trains and keep up the tracks and equipment, while railway construction work would fall to the lot of regular engineer regiments.

MRS. LORING DEAD

Wife of Retired Justice Dies in Rome

BOSTON, Mar. 12.—Mrs. Susan M. Loring, wife of Justice William Caleb Loring, retired, of the Massachusetts supreme judicial court, died in Rome on Saturday, according to news received here. She had been travelling through the south of France and Italy with her husband when she was stricken with pneumonia.

Mrs. Loring was a sister of Bishop William Lawrence and of Mrs. Frederick Cunningham of Brookline and Mrs. Augustus Hemenway.

She was born in Brookline 70 years ago, the daughter of Amos A. Lawrence. She was educated in private schools and in 1883 married Judge Loring. She was interested in the affairs of the Children's Aid society and was active in Trinity church. Her home was at 2 Gloucester st., Balk Way, and her summer home was at Beverly Farms. There she was active in St. John's church and was donor of its rectory. She was a member of the Beverly Improvement society and of its executive committee. She was also a member of the North Shore Garden club.

Sealed and Guaranteed for 2 years

THE new R&V Knight Six engine, banded, sealed and guaranteed, is the big surprise of the Boston Automobile Show. It emphasizes the height of dependability made possible by the latest development of Knight principles. Here is an automobile built with an engine designed to require no mechanical attention for at least two years. It is an engine that will be running just as good in five years. It is an engine which absolutely safeguards the owner from repair expense—the dealer from service costs for two years.

Simply give the engine oil and gas and you are ready to go where you want, when you want. That's the kind of service the automobile has always wanted; that is the service the new R&V Knight Six is built to give.

Should the engine require attention within two years from the day you buy your car from any cause except accident or abuse, the guarantee protects you absolutely. The R&V Knight dealer is authorized to break the seal and make any adjustments necessary. Such service costs you nothing—costs the dealer nothing. We pay the bill.

Reasons why we can seal and guarantee this engine for two years

We have not offered this guarantee blindly. It is a bonafide offer—based on sound judgment—not just a spectacular "stunt."

We have for the last four years watched our Knight Sixes, which have continually been improved in manufacture, and we know that those built during the last two years have, almost without exception, never been torn down. Consequently we are taking no risks in giving such a guarantee.

The R & V Motor Company has had more varied, more searching experience in building Knight engines than any Knight engine manufacturer in the United States.

The rigid demands of exclusive users of our Knight engines, such as the Fifth Avenue Coach Co., of New York and others, have improved the quality of our product to a degree that makes our guarantee perfectly reasonable and logical.

The new six cylinder R&V Knight is the development of four years' constant and tireless endeavor to reach perfection. Experience of over 25 years has taught us that no gas engine can be created over night. It must grow out of the test of time and service.

Knight principle is the foundation of our guarantee

Such a guarantee would be absolutely impractical in any automobile engine except the Knight. For it removes the necessity of expensive attention by eliminating carbon removal and valve troubles.

Our guarantee means exactly what it says

This is in no way an experiment. We have been building gasoline engines for 25 years, and have built Knight engines since 1913. We know the limitations of the poppet valve motor, which is simply an adaptation of the stationary gasoline engine for automobile use. We realized the greater possibilities of the Knight engine in 1913. In the nine years following we have developed these possibilities to such practical perfection that we are willing to stake our reputation and our whole business future on the guarantee.

A great car—worthy of a great engine

Our aim to make the new R&V Knight Six the best all around automobile value in America is shown in every detail of the body and chassis. At the Boston Automobile Show we are displaying both open and closed cars and a stripped chassis and your inspection of this exhibit will convince you that we have not depended alone on sealing and guaranteeing our engine to win public favor.

Dealers especially invited to study our new plan.

See it at the Show or at our Salesrooms, 872 Commonwealth Ave., Boston

SEVEN SEAMEN LOST IN STORM

Crew of Elizabeth Howard
Rescues 16 From Sinking
Schooner Coolen

HALIFAX, N. S., March 12.—The Gloucester fishing schooner Elizabeth Howard limped into this port yesterday, with 16 of the crew of the last Nova Scotia fishing schooner Helen M. Coolen safe on board, but with a tale of the loss of six lives during the terrific storms of last week on the North Atlantic.

The Elizabeth Howard reported that the Helen M. Coolen foundered on the banks not long after two of her crew had been swept overboard. Caught in the same terrific storm a huge sea struck the Howard, carrying off four men and everything movable.

Capt. Dan MacDonald of the Howard brought his vessel into port, showing plainly the effects of terrific buffeting by the angry seas. He related that late Wednesday night, while off the northeast bar of Sable Island, "the grave-yard of the Atlantic," the vessel was caught with the full force of the elements.

A great sea hoarded the vessel, sweeping the Gloucester fishermen from stem to stern. It was after midnight and in the darkness and the blinding snow the cries of the men overboard were heard faintly through the storm. Above the roar of the seas faint cries continued to drift back from the unfortunate fishermen, but their mates were helpless to aid them, their whole effort being directed to saving their craft from sinking.

"Boys were thrown out and when a bill came the schooner moved about showing flares but no trace of the men was found.

When the wind abated the roll was calmed and four men failed to respond to the muster.

The missing men were: Herbert Haddon of Newfoundland; Miles O'Brien, Bay of Bulls, N. F.; James Murphy, Cause, N. S.; John McLeod of St. Peter's, N. S.

On Thursday, the Howard started for Halifax to make repairs and report the loss of life. As she groped her way through the stormy sea she sighted a schooner flying distress signals and wallowing in the heavy sea. The Howard bore down on the helpless craft, which proved to be the Nova Scotia fisherman Helen M. Coolen.

The vessel was in imminent danger of sinking, so dories were put out by the Howard and 16 of the Coolen's crew were taken aboard. Soon afterwards the Coolen foundered and the Howard set sail for Halifax.

The Coolen reported that while 19 miles off the Chebucto head on Wednesday night, two of the crew were washed overboard and drowned. The men were: Steward Rouliff of Mills Cove, N. S.; and Joseph Laund, of Dover, N. S.

The Elizabeth Howard was an unsuccessful contender last fall for the honor of representing the American fishing fleet in the annual international fisherman's race, going down to defeat at the hands of the Henry Ford, which subsequently lost to the Canadian defender, Bluenose.

At Least Seven Lives Lost
BOSTON, March 12.—Fishesfolk along the North Atlantic coast today were counting the loss of life and properly suffered in the terrific storms on the fishing banks last week. At least seven lives had been lost, one good ship had sunk and many a fisherman and ship had experienced grueling hardships.

Four of the crew of the Elizabeth Howard, the pride of Gloucester, were swept away by a mountainous wave; two men of the crew of the Portland fishing schooner, Lachinar was lost at sea when a wave engulfed his dory.

brose removing two children and aiding in carrying down ladders a badly frightened woman who had been overcome by the smoke that choked the little bedrooms up above. Jeremiah O'Neil, nightman at the Molloy under-taking rooms, across the street, offered warmth and shelter to the families driven from their homes.

The fire started evidently in the basement of the fruit store, where it gained remarkable headway. The area was filled with goods of the popular grocery, fruit and confection kind, with other materials including boxes, cardboard containers and other goods of a sort that fed the flames.

The firemen directed their attention promptly to the burning cellar, chopping their way into dark areas without lights and locating points of vantage in their attack. Those lines were aided and the pressure adequate, and the fire was confined for the most part to the cellar area.

The fruit store on the corner was damaged by the flames that had to seek an outlet somewhere after the floor burned through and some of the flames swept out of the front windows and crept through the ceiling into the quarters above the chain of stores, but the firemen kept the spread well in hand and at no time was the block in great danger from the fire-creepers had the burning area surrounded by water streams.

So quickly did the fire spread from the basement at the early start, however, that heavy smoke shot rapidly through all sections of the four or five stories on the immediate corner and swirled up the tenement stairs to the bedrooms above where three families live. All of the tenants were asleep when the fire broke out and at least four of the people who later were rescued had no time to find any outer clothing or find an exit that wasn't filled with smoke from the fire below.

The situation appeared to be critical, windows were flung open and the frightened tenants screamed for help. The work of both the police and the firemen was unexcelled.

The occupants of the tenements over the store structures included the families of George Stametou, Charles Fraxaratos and Constantine Vargapoulos. Nine children were included in the number of tenants that were rescued either by the firemen or police or men in the crowd drawn by the alarm of fire.

The building at the corner of Dunster and Market streets, or at least the upper part of it, is one of the oldest structures in Lowell. Many years ago it stood but one and one-half stories high and was used as a corporation boarding house at one time. It has numerous historical values, according to lovers of local antiquarian matters of ancient building lore in old time Lowell.

Among the occupants of the block, which is the property of Dionysios A. Sakellarios, a well known and prosperous Lowell Greek speaking citizen who is engaged in the general business of real estate and other lines of activities, were Sokratis Brothers, fruit and confectionery dealers, at 375 Market street, corner of Dunster; Yanco Gabietis, grocer, 374 Market street; John Mekras, "Starvation Lunch," 376 Market; Constantine Vargapoulos, 362 Market street, and Mr. Sakellarios, real estate, 350 Market street; Poleosios Georgopoulos, coffee house, at 346 Market street; and Sakellarios & Kosaitis, bakers, at 55 Dunster street. The store formerly occupied by Joseph Harvey, plumber, at No. 374, was vacant.

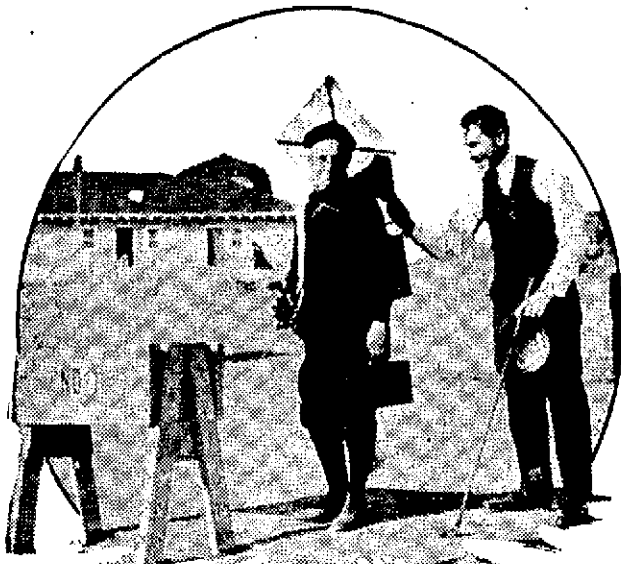

The insurance on the building is carried by the firm of Norcross & Leighton, Central street.

FLIVVER WIRELESS ON ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRES

(By NEA Service)

NEW YORK, March 12.—Get ready for the flivver of radio.

It is promised to all electric light users—and there are millions of these—through the purchase by the North American Company of this city of the "wired wireless" system invented by Maj. Gen. George D. Squaler, chief signal officer of the U.S.A.

The North American company is a holding corporation for electric illuminating and street railway companies in various cities of the country. Purchase of control of the "wired wireless" invention and development of a system of broadcasting throughout the country, it is said here, will involve an outlay of some $500,000 before any subscriber pays benefit from it.

Gen. Squaler's invention obviates the use of overhead antenna, ground wire and batteries, employing instead a plug for connection with the electric lighting system. Besides carrying the lighting and power current, the wires will be charged with "carrier currents" of different wave lengths, so that radio messages may be sent over them without interfering with, or being disturbed by, the light and power current.

Plans Ready

In their experiments with this system last summer, officials of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating company and others obtained a high degree of success. But one essential reason caused them to postpone adoption of the plan. That was:

The problem of obtaining revenue for wired wireless concerts was still unsolved. A solution has been found, and with it the North American company has announced its plans to proceed with the sale of instruments and the broadcasting of concerts from central control stations. The receiving instruments consist of a crystal or vacuum tube receiver that is a little larger than the ordinary desk telephone. On it is a dial to permit switching from one wave length to another.

Each assigned wave length will have its own form of education or entertainment, so that the subscriber will know how to turn the dial for the specific kind of entertainment he wants.

Meter Keeps Tab

These instruments will be sold to subscribers on the installment plan and their use will be charged for on the regular monthly electric lighting bill. The electric meter will keep tab on the use of the instrument.

Only those using these special instruments will be able to listen in on the "wired wireless" concerts. The reason is the central broadcasting station from which the programs will be broadcasted will be connected directly with the electric lighting systems of the country. That is, the will not use any form of aerials such as are in use by the regular broadcasters of today.

That will keep regular radio amateurs and other listeners from tuning in on the wired wireless concerts. And even if they do develop their instruments so that they can tune in, their use of the new system will be charged to them on their next month's electric lighting bill!

DODGE CAR FIT ALL YEAR ROUND

Mr. Dan O'Dea, president of Lowell Motor Mart Co., says: "The behavior of Dodge Bros. motor car on zero days is a fair example of its fitness the year round. You turn the switch, step on the button and the motor starts without undue noise or delay. As spring days approach, the demand for Dodge Bros. touring cars mount swiftly. Dodge Bros. one problem, at present is not how many touring cars they can sell, but how many they can build. Never was public approval of Dodge Bros. product more obvious and never was it more richly deserved. Improvements, rarely spoken of but constantly being made, have brought the car to a state of perfection which can only be described as remarkable."

MISCHA ELMAN'S LARGE REPERTOIRE

The layman would be surprised if he were faced with the necessity of memorizing ten or fifteen pieces of poetry, and even the average amateur musician finds it quite impossible to keep up a repertoire numbering more than 25 or 30 pieces that he can play at a moment's notice. How, then, is it possible for the big artists like Mischa Elman, who comes to the Auditorium on March 18, to recall 200 or even more solos in their mind? There is, of course, no way to explain it; genius cannot be understood. Mischa Elman, for instance, has at his fingers' ends no less than 22 concertos, 35 sonatas, 15 concert numbers with either orchestra or piano, and 112 smaller pieces such as piano numbers and the like. This enormous number and the like. This represents his actual working material, the works that he can and does play offhand from memory. Tickets for Elman's recital are on sale at Steinert's.

U. OF PENN. BUSILY DIGGING IN EGYPT

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—The University of Pennsylvania's Egyptian expedition, which has been delving into buried history at the entrance to the valley of the kings, where the tomb of Tutankhamen was recently found, is preparing to move to a cooler climate to continue searching for bits of information relating to the activities of men in past ages.

The university is now conducting four expeditions. One is in the valley of the kings, another at Memphis, which was the chief capital of Egypt; a third in Palestine, and another in Babylonia where, in connection with the expedition of the British museum, an ancient temple believed to have been built 3000 years before the birth of Christ was discovered. Announcement of the finding of this temple was recently made. Inscriptions were found showing that King Nebuchadnezzar repaired the place during his reign in the sixth century, B. C.

The university has arranged the work of her excavators so that when the hot weather season comes in one place they move to another, thus assuring almost continuous effort.

The work now coming to a close is at Thebes in an area adjoining the concession of Lord Carnarvon. During the two seasons of digging at Thebes, several tombs have been discovered constructed in the same way as that of Tutankhamen, but all of them open and looted. The objects found in each were not of interest to robbers, such as canopic jars, ushabtis, inscriptions and papyrus.

In the last named class of objects a really notable discovery was made at the close of last season when two sealed pottery cylinders were found within the entrance chamber of a tomb which contained rolls of papyrus. These were in a perfect state of preservation. On the outside of each roll was a docket written in ancient Greek, and upon examination the papyrus proved to be Demotic documents dating from 318 B. C. to 265 B. C. They are mostly contracts, and contain the business transactions of a family during the period of years which they covered. These papyrus are now being translated in the university museum.

All of the tombs discovered on the museum's concession were of officials of the government of Thebes who wished to be buried near the kings and whose tombs are therefore found

In close proximity to the royal resting places.

At the same time that the university museum is working this concession at Thebes it is also excavating at Memphis, fourteen miles from Cairo, where the museum expedition discovered several years ago the royal palace of Merneptah, an extensive structure covering a large area and enclosing numerous courts. The floors of this temple are found 25 feet below the surface of the ground. The lower walls, and sometimes doorways and parts of columns, are found standing.

One of the interesting discoveries made at this place is the head of a life-size statue of Akhenaton, the father-in-law of Tutankhamen. The features are exquisitely modeled and the sensitive face is rendered in a wonderfully lifelike manner.

The throne room of the Merneptah palace, especially the dais, shows rich sculpture and elaborate use of color. The ornaments and hieroglyphic inscriptions on the columns, and the stonework surrounding the doorways, are inlaid with beautiful pale blue faience.

Surrounding the throne room are dressing rooms, retiring rooms, and a bath room which originally had running water.

Excavation here is still in progress, and its completion is expected to throw much light on the domestic and official life of the pharaohs.

Memphis was the capital of Egypt from the earliest times down to about 2000 B. C. Then the pharaohs moved their capital south to Thebes, which arose to great splendor. Herodotus referred to the hundred gates of Thebes. This city remained the capital until Alexander the Great founded the new capital at Alexandria, except for that brief interval when Akhenaton built his new capital at Tell-el-Amarna in order that he might start everything in Egypt afresh: religion, art, architecture and government. His interesting experiment lasted for about a generation, or until Tutankhamen restored the old religion, reversed the policy of his father-in-law, changed his name from Tutankhaton to Tutankhamen as a symbol of his reversion, and went back to Thebes as the seat of his government.

Merneptah, who is regarded by most authorities as the Pharaoh of the Exodus, reigned 1225 to 1215 B. C. or about 125 years after Tutankhamen.

TOURISTS SPEND 45 MILLIONS IN MAINE

BANGOR, Me., March 12.—Maine receives yearly 500,000 tourists who spend in the state a total of $45,000,000. These figures announced as a conservative estimate were given at the annual meeting of the State of Maine publicity bureau held in this city recently. The report of the publicity committee chairman said the bureau was unique as being the only one in the country organized to give out information for an entire state, and supported by the contributions of its members. Its object is to develop Maine not only as a great vacation center but also agriculturally and commercially. The committee expended in advertising last year in newspapers and magazines $11,126.95. The replies totaled 8,203, showing a cost per reply of $1.73. It was announced that a very much larger sum would be available for advertising this year and that a strong effort would be made to get tourists into Maine earlier in the spring and to induce them to stay later in the fall.

From the time the bureau opened last spring until December 31, approximately 7,200 letters were received asking for information about Maine, and these were carefully answered, each one receiving individual attention. During the season approximately 35,000 pieces of literature describing Maine were mailed out from the bureau. These were all sent in direct reply to inquiries.

Better Than a Mustard Plaster

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Have You Ever Looked at a Cork?

TAKE a piece of cork in your hand and examine its qualities. Rub it, feel it, press it. Cork is tough. It does not abrade easily.

Throw this piece of cork on the floor and it will rebound. Cork is elastic. It has springy qualities.

Drop it in water and it floats. Cork is light. Stop a bottle with it and it will confine liquids for years. Cork is waterproof, and nonabsorbent. Cut a piece in two and you will see that it is compact and solid.

How cork is used in linoleum

Cork in powdered form is a basic material used in making linoleum. It combines perfectly with oxidized linseed oil, from which linoleum gets its name.

Here is what we mean by "oxidized" linseed oil: When this liquid is exposed to heat and air, a solid, tough film forms on top. That is a simple form of oxidation. When this tough substance is mixed with powdered cork the two blend together naturally. Pressed on a strong burlap back, you have what is known as linoleum.

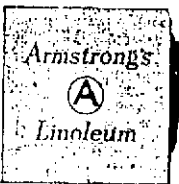

For the tread of many feet

Linoleum is used as a floor; it has all the qualities that a good floor should have. It is durable, smooth, and resilient. It is restful to stand or walk on. It is warm, waterproof, and non-absorbent.

There is another advantage to linoleum. It is produced in many colors and patterns. Armstrong's Linoleum is made in plain colors, in Jaspé or two-tone effects, in carpet inlaid, tile inlaid, and in many different printed designs. Also linoleum rugs, printed and inlaid, for people who live in apartments or houses on short leases.

When properly laid, a permanent floor

We have told you all these things about linoleum so that you will not by any possibility confuse it with other floor coverings that are not made of cork, linseed oil, and strong burlap. When properly laid (not tacked), Armstrong's Linoleum is not merely a floorcovering, but becomes a permanent floor, one that with occasional waxing and polishing should look as good as new for many years, and one that will never splinter or need costly re-finishing.

A room of light and color to which the polished, waxed linoleum floor adds charm

How to lay linoleum over wooden floors

In summer wood floors expand. In winter they dry out and contract, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builder's deadening felt which has been previously glued to the bare floor boards. The felt takes up expansion and contraction and gives you a permanent, waterproof, good-looking floor. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.

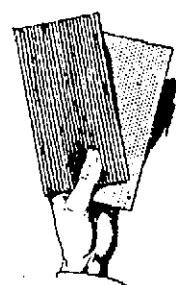

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retinning. Such a floor is smooth and light

How to tell genuine linoleum

All genuine linoleum has a burlap back that you can see. It does not tear easily. When you see the Circle "A" trademark on this burlap back, you can be sure you are getting the genuine Armstrong's Linoleum, made by the Armstrong Cork Company.

Prayer Brings Three Kidnapped Children To Mother Who'd Been Parted From Them

The Spring Has Lost Its Call For a No. 1, Ex-Hobo

By N.E.A. Service
FRANKLIN, Tex., March 12.—For 58 years Mrs. Pollyanna Busby, 66, has prayed nightly.
She has asked that her three sons, stolen from her at the close of the Civil war, be returned.
Now the three sons, grown to manhood and fathers of families, have been reunited with their aged mother. It looks like a queer twist of fate. But, says Mrs. Busby—
"It is only an answer to my prayers. It is a proof of the potency of prayer."
Here is the story—a story equal in its pathos and heart interest to long-fellow's tale of Beanie and Gabriel:
In 1865 Mrs. Busby was living happily in Meridian, Miss., with her three sons—William, 3; Henry, 6; and Stephen, 4. The father, a Confederate soldier, has been slain at Vicksburg.

Texas Emigration On

At that time vast numbers of families in the western confederacy were emigrating to seek their fortunes in Texas.

One of these emigrants was the Meridian village doctor, William and Henry, the two older Busby boys, interestedly watched the physician as he loaded his meager household supplies into his ox-cart.

"Jump in, boys, and I'll give you a ride," said the doctor.

That ride did not end until the boys, their resistance conquered by Henry with ox-whips, reached the doctor's claim in Texas. There they were reduced to the status of peons, laboring on the farm without pay and subjected to cruel mistreatment.

They finally effected their escape. Working from farm to farm, they reached the Oklahoma frontier.

There they grew to adulthood. They labored hard, saved their earnings, married, bought farms, prospered.

One Enters Clergy

William, a man of strong religious convictions, finally became a Baptist minister.

Meanwhile, back in Mississippi Stephen, the youngest son, too was stolen and taken to Texas. He escaped, went to Oklahoma and settled on a farm there.

More than a quarter of a century ago Henry and William learned of Stephen's identity.

They believed their mother had emigrated to Texas.

At the beginning of this year their search for her was still on. Henry, now 66, was a farmer at Okemah, Okla., Stephen, 61, was prospering on his land at Thakerville, Okla.

Grandson Starts Quest

William, now 69, was living the quiet life of a clergyman at Mangum, Okla. His eldest son, H. G. L. Busby, likewise had heard the call of the church and had been ordained a minister.

On the shoulders of the younger man William unloaded the task of seeking the long-lost mother.

Young Busby became pastor of a charge here in Franklin. In his spare hours he traveled miles into the surrounding country, stopping at every farmhouse and inquiring for information of his grandmother.

Finds Clue

Finally, on an errand of mercy, Busby stopped one night for food at an isolated farmhouse near Marquez. Replying to questions, he told the farm woman of his quest.

"Why, there's a woman just a piece down the road who's spent her life hunting for her three sons!" said the farm woman.

Leaving his dinner untouched, young Busby leaped into his niver and went to the indicated farmhouse.

There he found Mrs. Busby—now Mrs. Lukes, for she had remarried.

TOP TO BOTTOM: MRS. POLLYANNA BUSBY, HER SON, STEPHEN, YOUNGEST OF THE THREE STOLEN FROM HER, AND HER GRANDSON, THE REV. H. G. L. BUSBY, WHO FOUND HER.

She told Busby her story. "You are my grandmother," he said. Telegrams brought the three sons to Marquez as soon as they could travel. "My only wish in life has been fulfilled," Mrs. Lukes said.

ABOVE: LEON RAY LIVINGSTON AS HE LOOKS TODAY, WITH HIS WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN; BELOW, AS A-NO. 1, HOBO KING

By PHILIP J. SINKOVITZ
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

ERIE, Pa., March 12.—A short, gray-haired man, with pink cheeks reflecting perfect health, his carriage and clothing giving a dignified air of prosperity, is a frequent visitor at the local railroad yards right now.

He watches with interest the switching crews making up trains for California, for Canada, for Florida. Occasionally his keen eye catches sight of a tramp "en route." He manages to engage the wanderer in conversation.

Perhaps the hobo is a youngster, freed with an ambition to see the world. After this conversation, the youth is most likely to leave the "rags" weeping and, with money from his new friend, take the train home.

No Travel For Him

Perhaps the wanderer is an old-time hobo, one of those "chained to the road." Then there is likely to be a joyful meeting and an invitation to the well-dressed chap to join in a trip. But all pleadings are in vain—

"A-NO. 1," most famous hobo of all times, is through wandering! Thirty years or more of wandering rolls the blood of A-NO. 1 every spring. But he's now Leon Ray Livingston, author and publisher, 50 each year, after a hard struggle, he wins his battle against the lure of the road.

"Don't you worry for fear he'll not be able to resist his itching feet?" his attractive wife is asked at this time. "He loves his family too much," is her pitiful answer.

Cupid's Work

And such is the change Dan Cupid has wrought in the famous hobo, who's work is seen along every railroad system in America and Canada, who has traveled more than 600,000 miles at a cost of $7.61. His splendid home with wife and kiddies sprawns out the springtime call of the road. "Afraid of a whipping, Livingston ran away from his San Francisco home when 11. He covered all of America and traveled in England, Germany, Mexico, South America and Alaska.

He fortunately fell in with a "square" hobo.

"Always be A-NO. 1, whoever you are, whatever you do, wherever you be," admonished the youth's hobo friend. So "A-NO. 1" became his "monicker."

Jack London hoboed across America with A-NO. 1.

Starts to Write

Self-educated, he began to write stories of tramp life, with a view to keeping other boys from vagabondage. Thousands of these are sold every year.

A chance kindness by a railwayman at Erie 16 years ago caused A-NO. 1 to send the local man a box of oranges. On his next visit, the tramp was invited home.

Here he met romance. Livingston left the road and became a husband and later head of a family.

Happy? We'll say Julianne Johnston, film player, is. Because she's been picked from thousands of applicants to dance at the Motion Picture Directors' association annual ball in Los Angeles.

SKATING TO REPLACE DANCING!

"Roller skating is lots more fun than dancing," says Gene Dregger, shown above, president of the Gliders, an organization of Atlanta (Ga.) young men and women skating enthusiasts. The Gliders have left the dance-halls deserted and they swarm nightly on Atlanta's sidewalks and pavements.

RUM PIRATES LOOT SHIP AT GUN POINT

HALIFAX, N. S., March 12.—When the Vermont schooner Eddie James, which recently sailed from here to the Jersey coast with 600 cases of liquor docked yesterday she was minus her cargo, but the crew accounted for this with a startling tale of daring pirates and gunpoint encounters with the ship peacefully docked at anchor off the New Jersey coast, near Highland light, on March 2.

Armed with pistols, the rum pirates boarded the schooner at dusk and fired a volley of shots, wounding Supercargo Phillip Knowles. Then at the point of pistols, they looted the ship of the 600 cases of whiskey, 500 in trash and escaped, taking with them the wounded supercargo.

With the cargo gone, the schooner made back to its home port to report the piracy and the kidnapping of Knowles.

The captain's story had all the melodrama of the tales attributed to Capt. Kidd in his piratical operations on the Spanish main. Five sturdy seamen, armed to the teeth, boarded his defenseless little schooner as she lay "off New York" with her cargo of liquor which she had taken on at Nassau, Capt. Mosher related. They approached in a steam launch from a "large powerfully built steamer" and, after boarding, advised the captain of the former fresh fishing vessel that they wished to purchase some liquor. The captain admitted that he suggested a conference, but testified that much was his surprise when, after the five strangers had seated themselves in the cabin with himself, his mate and the supercargo, the five started to fire indiscriminately, wounding the supercargo and driving the remainder of the crew to hiding places aboard the vessel.

"Then while two held the crew at bay," the captain said, "the others commenced passing cases of good whiskey over the schooner's side into the launch. When 600 cases, most of the cargo, had taken that route, they held me up and robbed me of $8000 in cash and then leaped into the launch," dragging the poor wounded supercargo with them.

"As they disappeared one of them called back: 'When we land this we're coming back for more.' "So we hoisted anchor and put to sea and that's the story," the captain concluded.

Since that time the James has encountered a series of storms which delayed her arrival here by several days. The James is a Nova Scotian vessel and for years was engaged in the fresh fishing out of Yarmouth.

Chairman.

DIES IN STREET CAR ON WAY TO HIS WORK

Charles G. Anderson of 115 Hastings street died suddenly this morning while on board a Lowell-bound North Chelmsford car, due in the square at 8.30 o'clock. Mr. Anderson was a regular passenger on this car and it was not until the car reached the square that the operator saw anything unusual in his condition. On stopping the car in the square he turned around and noticed Anderson was ill and notified the starter, who immediately called the ambulance. When the ambulance arrived Mr. Anderson was dead and his body was removed to George W. Healey's undertaking parlor at 24 Westford street.

Mr. Anderson was for the past six or seven years the janitor of the Bradley block, and although an old man, none of the tenants of the building had noticed any signs of sickness about him.
He was 72 years of age, and leaves a wife, Mrs. Stella E. Anderson; one daughter, Lillian P. Anderson, and a brother in Stockholm, Sweden. He was a member of Doric lodge, A.F. and A.
M., of Monson, Me., and Puritan chap-

SNOW, SLEET AND RAIN TODAY'S WEATHER GIFT

WHOLESALE ARRESTS OF IRISHMEN EXPLAINED

LONDON, March 12 (By the Associated Press).—Home Secretary Bridgman, explaining today to the house of commons the wholesale arrests of Irishmen in Scotland and England over the week-end, said the raids had been made under orders from himself and the secretary for Scotland, Viscount
Neville, at the request of the Irish Free
State government.

The British government he said had evidence of the existence in England and Scotland of a quasi-military organization, the aim of which was to do all possible in co-operation with the Irish Free State government, to overturn the British government. In certain contingencies they were prepared to resort to acts of violence in this country in pursuance of their object.

Secretary Bridgman said the arrested Irishmen would be detained by the Free State government but would have the right of appeal to an advisory committee to be established.
John Jones, laborite, challenged the government's action, claiming that some of the persons deported were English. He successfully moved adjournment of the house to debate the question, the motion receiving the support of all the laborites and many of the liberals. The debate will take place this evening.

PHILIP BOGDONOFF ON WITNESS STAND IN OWN BEHALF

Says Receipt of So-Called "Black

But Admits He Thought They Might Have Had Some Connection With
Fires on Night of Nov. 14

Philip Bogdonoff, one of the Bog-

at the criminal session of the superior court, denied at this morning's session that he doubted the insurance on the stock of the Merrimack square store
as a result of alleged "black hand" cards he received. Mr. Bogdonoff stated that the extra amount of insurance on the store was taken after the Willis store across the way had been destroyed by fire.
He further stated that the alleged black-hand cards were received some time after the insurance had been increased, but stated that the cards might have some connection with the fires.

NEAR RIOT AT BANK SUMMARY OF EARLY INDIAN LEADER URGES MORNING A. P. NEWS CO-OPERATION

Closing Angers Depositors—Streets Thronged—Owners Disappear

NEW YORK, March 12.—Weeping women and children, with scowling, swarthy men, muttering dire threats, thronged the streets near the private bank of Vincenzo Tisbo and brothers in the lower East Side yesterday, pleading for the return of their life savings, believed to have been taken by the three Tisbo brothers, who have disappeared.

Some had been on the "death watch" at the bank since the first news Saturday that the trio had disappeared, taking with them, apparently, the $200,000 the bank was believed to have on deposits. Each hour added to the crowd, excited Italians from New Jersey, Connecticut, Staten Island and other points, joining in the confusion and making attempts to enter the bank, despite a strong guard of police and detectives.

It was a motley crowd, women with tattered raiment, men in overalls, while here and there, a man or woman in evening dress. One couple, however, broke through the police cordon and pounded on the locked doors frantically until led away. They had $9800 on deposit—their savings of 20 years and had only $1.50 remaining, the man said.

Meanwhile, police headquarters were busy on various clues and yesterday cabled Italian police authorities to arrest the Tisbos should they arrive there by steamer. Francesco Tisbo, police believe, has sailed for Italy on the liner Taormina, while the movements of Vincenzo, the head of the firm, and Vito, missing since Thursday, have not been traced.

Scores of depositors visited headquarters and told of the amounts they had on deposit. The sums varied from a few dollars to $17,000, which a man claiming to be related to the Tisbo family, said he had advanced to help start the business years ago.

GAYA, India, March 12.—Violence defeats the aims of freedom, and non-violent non-cooperation is the best path for India to travel to gain self-rule, is the opinion of C. R. Das, president of the Indian national congress, recently in session here. He upheld vigorously the ideal of self-government, and asked what was the ideal Indians should set up before them.

"It is nationalism," he declared, "but what is nationalism? It is, I conceive, a process through which a nation expresses itself, not in isolation from other nations, but in opposition to other nations, but as part of a great scheme by which, in seeking its own expression and therefore its own identity, it materially assists the self-expression and self-realization of other nations as well. Diversity is as real as unity. And in order that the unity of the world may be established, it is essential that each nationality should proceed on its own line and find fulfillment in self-expression and self-realization."

"The only method by which freedom can be attained in India is the method of non-violent non-cooperation. We are here on the eve of great changes. The victory of Kernal Tagha has broken the bonds of Asia, and she is all astir with life. The stir within every European country for the real freedom of the people has also worked a marvelous transformation in the mentality of subject races. That which was more or less a matter of ideal has now come within the range of practical politics. The Indian nation has found its bearings."

"There is no royal road to freedom, and dark and difficult will be the path leading to it. But dauntless is your courage, and firm your resolution, and though there will be reverses, they will only have the effect of speeding your emancipation from the bondage of a foreign government. The success of the movement is assured."

IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Missions Announced at St. Patrick's and Immaculate Conception

Rev. H. L. Blunt to Lecture on Irish Poetry at Sacred Heart

A two weeks' mission, under the direction of the Oblate Fathers, opened in St. Patrick's church last evening with an unusually large congregation of women present. The regular mission exercises, consisting of mass in the morning, and rosary, benediction and sermon in the evening, will be continued throughout the week to conclude with the papal blessing and solemn benediction next Sunday afternoon. The men's mission will open Sunday night next and will be brought to a close with the customary exercises the following Sunday. The morning masses during the week will be celebrated at 8.30 and 7.45 o'clock with brief religious instruction after the last mass. Evening devotions will begin at 7.30. The following Oblates will have charge of services: Rev. William J. Kerwin, O.M.I., Rev. Robert J. McCoy, O.M.I., Rev. Albert P. McDermott, O.M.I., and Rev. James J. O'Sullivan, O.M.I.

It was announced at all the masses in St. Patrick's yesterday that a solemn high mass in honor of the feast day of the patron saint of the church will be celebrated next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Following the mass, ground will be broken for the new Suffolk and Cross streets.

The annual men's mission in the Immaculate Conception church will begin next Sunday, and will consist of the usual exercises, devotions being scheduled for every morning and evening. A high mass in honor of St. Patrick will be celebrated Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The Immaculate Conception sodality will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

This morning at 8.30 o'clock a month's mind high mass was celebrated in memory of Rev. John M. McIlroy, O.M.I., former pastor.

At the 8.30 o'clock mass in St. Peter's church, yesterday, members of the Mathew Temperance Institute received communion in a body. Rev. Daniel J. Kolcher, Phil., pastor, and chaplain of the society, addressed the members after the mass. There will be a meeting of the Propagation of the Faith society Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock. A solemn high mass will be sung in honor of St. Patrick next Saturday at 9 o'clock.

The Holy Name society of St. Michael's church received communion in a body in that church at the 8 o'clock mass yesterday morning. The regular meeting of the society was held in the evening at 6.30. There will be a meeting of the Immaculate Conception sodality in the lower church tomorrow evening. Next Sunday is communion Sunday for the sodality. St. Michael's charity guild will meet in the Guild hall, Sixth street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The St. Patrick's day mass in this church will be sung at 9 o'clock.

The senior and junior branches of the Holy Name society received communion at the 7.30 o'clock mass in the Sacred Heart church yesterday. It was announced at all the masses that the stations of the cross will be held on Thursday of this week instead of Friday. This is due to the fact that Rev. Hugh L. Blunt of Cambridge will speak in the school hall on Friday evening, taking as his subject, "Irish Verse and Music." A high mass in honor of St. Patrick will be sung Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

In connection with the usual Lenten devotions in St. Columba's church next Wednesday evening, Rev. John F. Welsh of St. Francis' church, South Braintree, will preach. Rev. Fr. Welsh has the reputation of being an excellent pulpit orator and a large attendance is expected at the services. At 7 o'clock Saturday morning, a mass will be celebrated in honor of St. Patrick.

At St. Margaret's church Saturday morning, the mass in honor of St. Patrick will be celebrated at 7.30 o'clock. The regular Lenten devotions will be continued this week on Wednesday and Friday evenings.

WOMEN'S TENNIS SINGLES

BROOKLINE, March 12.—Playing in the national women's indoor tennis singles championships was scheduled to begin at the courts of the Longwood Cricket club here today with Miss Leslie Bancroft of West Newton a favorite for titular honors. Miss Bancroft was to meet Mrs. J. S. Corbier of Cambridge in the first round.

Other matches that promised stiff competition were those between Mrs. B. E. Cole of North Andover, and Miss Brenda Hedstrom of Buffalo, N. Y., and between Mrs. Frank H. Godfrey of Boston, and Miss C. E. Baker of East Orange, N. J.

Ten Persons Overcome at Fire in Boston

BOSTON, March 12.—Ten persons were overcome by smoke, three of them requiring hospital treatment in a fire in the West End today. Jacob Wealer, assisted by firemen, rescued from the third floor of the tenement building his wife and five children and, retruning, was trapped by the flames. He escaped by jumping into a snow bank.

AT ALL SOULS' CHURCH

Rev. Abraham M. Ribbony

Preached—Society Meetings Announced

Rev. Abraham M. Ribbony, pastor of the Church of the Disciples, Boston, distinguished as a student of eastern and western folk culture, expert on immigration affairs and conditions in the Near East, where he was born, appeared yesterday afternoon as speaker at the last of the present series of 4 o'clock vespers services in All Souls' church, bringing a message to Lowell religious and educational workers of timely importance.

Pastor Ribbony's record in Christian fields of endeavor is widely known. He is an author of reputation also, some of his books like "A Far Country," "The Syrian Christ," "The Treasure of Canaan" and "The Wise Men of the East and West," being widely read and studied. The pastor's coming to Lowell yesterday was responsible for a large attendance of church members and many from outside walks of life.

Corbett States Tanlac Ended Stomach Trouble and Fulfilled Every Desire for Robust Health

"Tanlac has set my stomach in order and has me eating again at my old time pace," is the enthusiastic statement of Henry E. Corbett, 31 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, Mass., well known localist.

"I didn't take my condition seriously until I got where I had no appetite at all, which was an unusual thing for me. I made the mistake of thinking that my illness, run down condition was due to the grind of my work instead of stomach trouble. But when my food began souring on my stomach, bloating me up and causing a terrible burning sensation, I knew that my trouble was indigestion.

"What I wanted was to eat well, sleep well and be able to put in a good day's work without it tiring me out, and after a short experience with Tanlac I can do all three. The medicine has made me feel just like I wanted to feel, and I am glad to tell everybody about it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

Over 35 million bottles sold.—Adv.

drawn to All Souls by previous announcement of the preacher-author's coming.

The vespers services were also notable for the offering of an unusually interesting and enjoyable program of vocal and instrumental selections by well known Boston Symphony orchestra artists.

Mrs. Laura Littlefield, one of the best known lyric sopranos in this part of the country, whose educational records for the Victrola are widely used and prized, sang several numbers in splendid voice. She has appeared with the Boston Symphony more than a dozen times this season.

Jacobus Langendon, cellist of the Boston Symphony, accompanied Mrs. Littlefield in two numbers and also gave two solo numbers that were finely rendered.

Pastor Ribbony drew his vespers sermon lesson from Ecclesiastes, wherein the latter showeth that "all human courses are vain because the creatures are careless in their courses," etc. He quoted the familiar phrase, "There is no new thing under the sun," and also the remarkable phrase, "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity." He interpreted these expressions of Ecclesiastes as the sayings of a man whose philosophy of life was not consistent with God's teachings or the views of the Master. Since Ecclesiastes' due, continued Pastor Ribbony, Christ was born and many other men were given lives to live—lives of infinite value to the world and mankind and the Lord's work, the birth of Jesus brought new light into the world—a light unfading, that will never be extinguished.

The pastor alluded once more to the term "vanity" and said that "nothing is vanity when it is consecrated to God." He spoke of Europe as in distress and darkness, and wondered how Europeans today could ever find anything in the teachings of Ecclesiastes but "bleak words." How would we continue in this great country of ours, the pastor went on, without the moral strength and virtues that we find in the word of Jesus Christ? The belief in immortality today is more extensive than in pre-Christian days, the pastor continued, when the belief in the future life was less prevalent.

The pastor characterized pessimism as an enemy of mankind. Grumblers, too, are in a class by themselves and have no sunshine to light their pathways of life. He ventured to say that hopes and inspiration were futile if those who sought happiness and new life were prone to pessimistic thoughts and ideas.

"Tomorrow," he said, "is the real cry of the human soul, or should be, as well as today. Self-gratification is the torture of the soul." The musical numbers were quite elaborate.

MORNING SERVICE

Pastor McGiffert's morning sermon topic was taken from the gospel of St. Luke, 19:27. He dwelt at length upon the reasons for maintaining human relationships of the right kind and drew illustrations of proper conduct from various examples of common knowledge. He described the power of the human brain as compared with that endowed in lowly animals, picturing the limited powers of perception of crustaceans and reptiles and describing the small brains of various familiar members of the animal kingdom as compared with the wonderful organization of perception and understanding.

The pastor also interpreted an interesting account of man's highest aims, the values of seeking power from above at all times and the abundant relief and sustenance that comes in the acquisition of all good things when hearts are true to the best ideals.

Before delivering his sermon, the pastor addressed the children in the audience, having a special message of hope, advice and good cheer for each and every one, drawing lessons from every-day affairs in Lowell.

The attractive display of channel flowers yesterday was presented in memory of Mrs. Mary P. Marden. The organizer was Mrs. Helen Hamilton Taylor.

The Young People's association met at 8:15 p. m., the speaker being Rev. Mr. Ribbony. The supper committee included Priscilla Fox, Dorothy Mignault, Richard Fletcher and Raymond Teller. The minister's training class met in the pastor's study at 8:15 o'clock.

Pastor McGiffert will give the third of his studies in American Christianity Thursday, March 15, at 7:30 p. m.

The women of the church are to have a sewing meeting Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the ladies' parlors for the Lowell Guild.

The Ready Workers and the Service club members will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Lampala club will meet Friday evening at 7:15 o'clock in their clubhouse.

SPLENDID PROGRAM FOR

ST. PATRICK'S CONCERT

The United Irish societies of Lowell are to combine their efforts in celebrating St. Patrick's day this year and will put on a mammoth concert at the Auditorium next Sunday evening. Many of Lowell's best singers have agreed to take part in this event and it should prove to be the best of its kind ever held in Lowell. The songs will be those that are best known of Ireland's and will be sung in a manner befitting the song. Mrs. Ella Kelly is in charge of the musical program and one of its features will be a quartet composed of Mrs. James A. Murphy, soprano; Mrs. Nana Gallagher, mezzo; Mrs. James A. Murphy, tenor; and Andrew A. McCarthy, baritone. This will be the quartet's first appearance.

You Can Do It Better With GasWhy 600,000 Americans now bathe internally

9 out of 10 people are working at only half the efficiency they should enjoy—that's what science reveals. Hundreds of recent tests have shown that 9 out of 10 men and women are suffering from constipation and "auto-intoxication"—they are carrying around inside them, at all times, large colonies of poisonous germs. Cathartics cannot remove this trouble. They bring at best only partial relief.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell devoted years of his life to a study of "Auto-intoxication". More than 600,000 men and women have benefited by his research.

Dr. Tyrrell's method was the internal bath. And for its proper and easy administration he perfected what is known as the "J.B.L. Cascade". No other method and no cathartic can do the work for which the Cascade was specifically designed.

The story of Dr. Tyrrell's research and the "how and why" of internal bathing are extremely interesting. They have been put into a book entitled "Why Man of Today Is Only 50 Per Cent Efficient". This book is free to anyone, and it should be read by every man and woman. We will be glad to mail or give you a copy of this book on request. There is no obligation involved.

BUICK PRESENTS 15 MODELS FOR 1923

The Buick line for 1923 consists of 15 models, giving a wide selection of body types to meet practically every requirement. Utility and luxury are combined in each, and the combination is an irresistible one, as indicated by the record-breaking demand for these cars," says Milo Hale, local Buick man.

"Motor car buyers find many outstanding features in the new Buicks. Those to whom mechanical features are paramount will approve the heavier Buick frame, the improved cantilever spring suspension which makes the Buick ride so easy, the larger radiator core supports. These and the other mechanical points are graphically displayed by means of a wonderful, animated and revolving chassis, which is the outstanding feature of the show.

"Extensive improvements characterize Buick body construction. Heavier body cross bars are unique and effective improvements. The pillar brace irons have been increased in strength, as well as front and rear seat back rails now appearing with bolt joints. Body brackets are now bolted, and the body is attached to the frame with more bolts. The cars also have heavier and stronger door locks.

"Many improvements are also found in the motor. The new motor with larger crankshaft and longer pistons adds much to the noiselessness and smoothness of the motor operation.

"An indication of the extreme care used in refining the present valve-in-head motor and minuteness of detail followed by the experimental department, is illustrated in the new Buick push rods which are a combination of aluminum and steel to synchronize the motion of the metal in the push rod with the metal in the cylinder after the motor is running and the metal becomes heated.

"Women drivers who visit the show will find much that appeals to them in the Buick exhibit. With more than a passing thought for the fair ones, the Buick designers and the Fisher body corporation have incorporated many notable features. The bodies have been slung much lower. The roof presents an almost straight line to the eye and is built to prevent noise and covered with a special material to deaden sounds."

AT THE BOSTON SHOW
G. Russell Dean, Jr. and Robert J. Rutledge will be found at the Boston auto show all this week, at the Cadillac display. Here Lowell visitors will be well taken care of by these two local men.

LOWEST PRICE IN HISTORY OF FORD CAR

With many improvements in its products and the lowest prices in its history, the Ford Motor Company has started on what undoubtedly will be the banner year, says George A. Sargent, sales manager for the Forest City Motor Company, local Lincoln, Ford and Packard dealers. For the last 10 months retail deliveries of Ford cars and trucks have exceeded the 100,000 mark, and unprecedented sales record. Demand for cars is strong in all sections of the country and there are no reserve stocks in dealers hands. Requests for cars for the month of February totalled 118,497 against a possible production of only 124,294—a shortage of over 24,000 cars with a large part of the country covered with snow.

Fordson tractor orders are several thousand ahead of production and many farmers will be disappointed on early deliveries.

Sales on the new four sedan have so far outstripped production that dealers have been advised to promise no delivery date on this model.

Orders are being taken care of as fast as cars are received and new orders will receive the best attention possible.

As to the Lincoln car, Mr. Pitts offers an abstract of an interview given out in Detroit last week by Edsel Ford in which he said:

"As we found it when we took it over, the Lincoln was a great achievement in automobile construction. Such improvements as have been made during the past year relate largely to the refining of certain details where our engineers believed that refinements would help.

"In the motor we have done certain things as they relate to the construction of the head, to the material used in the pistons and to the finish on certain parts which have resulted in somewhat smoother operation although the power plant as we found it was exceptionally smooth in performance.

"Bodies have come in for a great amount of attention and at the present time we have a man inspecting the various body plants building body equipment for the Lincoln. In all plants which are doing work for us we will have permanent inspectors to watch every detail of finish as the bodies are completed."

CLEANING COAT COLLARS
It is almost impossible to keep a coat collar from becoming greasy where it comes in contact with the neck, but the objectionable stain may be removed by sponging it with alcohol in which salt has been dissolved.

GETTING OFF MUD
Mud stains that are difficult to remove often yield gracefully when confronted with a cut raw potato. Grate the potato and add the same amount of water. When the mixture has settled, strain off the liquid and use it to sponge spots with. Then press on the wrong side.

BIG YEAR FOR THE SATISFACTION GUARANTEED FOR KNIGHT SIX

Tangible, visible proof that the new R&V Knight Six will live up to all claims made for it by its makers is given by the tamper-proof seal which now closes every R&V Knight Six, now closes every R&V Knight Six Engine when it leaves the factory.

For two years, so the R&V Motor company says, this engine should run, absolutely without trouble of any kind. No mileage figures are specified—the purchaser is entitled to drive his R&V Knight as far as he can in 730 days. So long as he gives it water, gas and oil, he is assured of complete satisfaction and uninterrupted service.

"Such a move might be called spectacular," says J. A. Holder, president of the R&V Motor company. "If it were not backed up by facts. We have taken this step after very careful investigation of the past performance of R&V Knights in the hands of owners. Two years is a conservative estimate. If we did not feel firmly convinced that practically every car would go far beyond this limit, we would never dare to give the absolute guarantee which goes with every engine when it leaves the factory."

The R & V Motor company has been building Knight type engines for automobiles since 1913. For four years, they were the only Knight six motor car in America. The new R & V Knight Six engine shown for the first time at the New York Show, is the outgrowth of nine years of experience.

Some of Cadillac's earliest pioneers are still with the organization. H. H. Rice, president and general manager, sold the first Cadillac "one-lunger" exhibited at the New York auto show. Furthermore, many of the Old Guard, Cadillac's famous organization of distributors, began their service in the company during the one-lunger days.

Frank Johnson, at present engineer in charge of design at the Cadillac Motor Car company, was in 1902 the chief draftsman who drew up the plans for the first one-cylinder car, and has had an important part in the design of practically every new Cadillac built since that time. Cadillac has many men who have served continuously for 20 years.

ORGANIZE RAILWAYS FOR WAR SERVICE

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Names of American railway systems will hereafter appear in the military designations of battalions of railway engineers now being recruited as a part of the organized reserves. Under the new plan employees of the various systems who join the battalions would be organized reserves. Under the command of men who directed their work in peace times, and united they would carry with them into the active army the team work developed during years of association and the names of the railways from which they came.

The plan was suggested to the war department by Lieutenant Colonel W. G. Arm, of the Illinois Central railroad, who is an engineer reserve officer and served in France during the war with the 13th railway engineers, reaching his present rank. Previously the reserve program called for organization of the railway units by corps areas, and without regard to the railway system, the battalions to be filled up with men of railway experience as they might apply.

The new plan relieves the railway battalions from corps area restrictions, the personnel to be drawn from the entire railway system to which the unit is allotted.

It would be the business of these battalions to operate trains and keep up the tracks and equipment, while Six engine shown for the first time at the New York Show, is the outgrowth of nine years of experience.

with the Knight type engine, and this engine, we believe to be the best all around automobile engine ever built.

MRS. LORING DEAD

Wife of Retired Justice Dies in Rome
BOSTON, Mar. 12.—Mrs. Susan M. Loring, wife of Justice William Cabot Loring, retired, of the Massachusetts supreme judicial court, died in Rome on Saturday, according to news received here. She had been travelling through the south of France and Italy with her husband when she was stricken with pneumonia.

Mrs. Loring was a sister of Bishop William Lawrence and of Mrs. Frederick Cunningham of Brookline and Mrs. Augustus Hemenway.

She was born in Brookline 70 years ago, the daughter of Amos A. Lawrence. She was educated in private schools and in 1882 married Judge Loring. She was interested in the affairs of the Children's Aid society and was active in Trinity church.

Her home was at 2 Gloucester st., Back Bay, and her summer home was at Beverly Farms. There she was active in St. John's church and was donor of the rectory. She was a member of the Beverly Improvement society and of its executive committee. She was also a member of the North Shore Cardan club.

Sealed and Guaranteed for 2 years

THE new R&V Knight Six engine, banded, sealed and guaranteed, is the big surprise of the Boston Automobile Show. It emphasizes the height of dependability made possible by the latest development of Knight principles. Here is an automobile built with an engine designed to require no mechanical attention for at least two years. It is an engine that will be running just as good in five years. It is an engine which absolutely safeguards the owner from repair expense—the dealer from service costs for two years.

Simply give the engine oil and gas and you are ready to go where you want, when you want. That's the kind of service the automobilist has always wanted; that is the service the new R&V Knight Six is built to give.

Should the engine require attention within two years from the day you buy your car from any cause except accident or abuse, the guarantee protects you absolutely. The R&V Knight dealer is authorized to break the seal and make any adjustments necessary. Such service costs you nothing—costs the dealer nothing. We pay the bill.

Reasons why we can seal and guarantee this engine for two years

We have not offered this guarantee blindly. It is a bonafide offer—based on sound judgment—not just a spectacular "stunt."

We have for the last four years watched our Knight Sixes, which have continually been improved in manufacture, and we know that those built during the last two years have, almost without exception, never been torn down. Consequently we are taking no risks in giving such a guarantee.

The R & V Motor Company has had more varied, more searching experience in building Knight engines than any Knight engine manufacturer in the United States.

The rigid demands of exclusive users of our Knight engines, such as the Fifth Avenue Coach Co., of New York and others, have improved the quality of our product to a degree that makes our guarantee perfectly reasonable and logical.

The new six cylinder R&V Knight is the development of four years' constant and tireless endeavor to reach perfection. Experience of over 25 years has taught us that no gas engine can be created over night. It must grow out of the test of time and service.

Knight principle is the foundation of our guarantee

Such a guarantee would be absolutely impractical in any automobile engine except the Knight. For it removes the necessity of expensive attention by eliminating carbon removal and valve troubles.

Our guarantee means exactly what it says

This is in no way an experiment. We have been building gasoline engines for 25 years, and have built Knight engines since 1913. We know the limitations of the poppet valve motor, which is simply an adaptation of the stationary gasoline engine for automobile use. We realized the greater possibilities of the Knight engine in 1913. In the nine years following we have developed these possibilities to such practical perfection that we are willing to stake our reputation and our whole business future on the guarantee.

A great car—worthy of a great engine

Our aim to make the new R&V Knight Six the best all around automobile value in America is shown in every detail of the body and chassis. At the Boston Automobile Show we are displaying both open and closed cars and a stripped chassis and your inspection of this exhibit will convince you that we have not depended alone on sealing and guaranteeing our engine to win public favor.

Dealers especially invited to study our new plan.

See it at the Show or at our Salesrooms, 872 Commonwealth Ave., Boston

SEVEN SEAMEN LOST IN STORM

Crew of Elizabeth Howard
Rescues 16 From Sinking
Schooner Coolen

HALIFAX, N. S., March 12.—The Gloucester fishing schooner Elizabeth Howard limped into this port yesterday, with 16 of the crew of the lost Nova Scotia fishing schooner Helen M. Coolen safe on board, but with a tale of the loss of six lives during the terrific storm of last week on the North Atlantic.

The Elizabeth Howard reported that the Helen M. Coolen foundered on the banks not long after two of her crew had been swept overboard. Caught in the same terrific storm a huge sea struck the Howard, carrying off four men and everything movable.

Capt. Dan MacDonald of the Howard brought his vessel into port showing plainly the effects of terrific buffeting by the angry seas. He related that late Wednesday night, while off the northeast bar of Sable Island, "the grave-yard of the Atlantic," the vessel was caught with the full force of the elements.

A great sea boarded the vessel, sweeping the Gloucester fisherman from stem to stern. It was after midnight and in the darkness and the blinding snow the cries of the men overboard were heard faintly through the storm. Above the roar of the seas faint cries continued to drift back from the unfortunate fishermen, but their mates were helpless to aid them, their whole efforts being directed to saving their craft from sinking.

Boys were thrown out and when a full came the schooner moved about showing flares but no trace of the men was found.

When the wind abated the roll was called and four men failed to respond to the muster.

The missing men were: Herbert Blonin of Newfoundland; Miles O'Brien, Bay of Bulls, N. E.; James Murphy, Canoe, N. S.; John McLeod of St. Peter's, N. S.

On Thursday, the Howard started for Halifax to make repairs and report the loss of life. As she groped her way through the stormy sea she sighted a schooner flying distress signals and wallowing in the heavy sea. The Howard bore down on the helpless craft, which proved to be the Nova Scotia fisherman Helen M. Coolen.

The vessel was in imminent danger of sinking, so dories were put out by the Howard and 16 of the Coolen's crew were taken aboard. Soon afterwards the Coolen foundered and the Howard set sail for Halifax.

The Coolen reported that while 13 miles off the Chebucto head on Wednesday night, two of the crew were washed overboard and drowned. The men were: Steward Routhillier of Mills Cove, N. S.; and Joseph Laund, of Dover, N. S.

The Elizabeth Howard was an unsuccessful contender last fall for the honor of representing the American fishing fleet in the annual international fisherman's race, going down to defeat at the hands of the Henry Ford, which subsequently lost to the Canadian defender Bluenose.

At Least Seven Lives Lost

BOSTON, March 12.—Fishermen along the North Atlantic coast today were counting the loss of life and property suffered in the terrific storm on the fishing banks last week. At least seven lives had been lost, one good ship had sunk and many a fisherman and ship had experienced grueling hardships.

Four of the crew of the Elizabeth Howard, the pride of Gloucester, were swept away by a mountainous wave; two men of the crew of the Portland fishing schooner Lochovar were lost at sea when a wave engulfed his dory.

brose removing two children and aiding in carrying down ladders a badly frightened woman who had been overcome by the smoke that choked the little bedrooms up above. Jeremiah O'Neill, nightman at the Molloy undertaking rooms, across the street, offered warmth and shelter to the families driven from their homes.

The fire started evidently in the basement of the fruit store, where it gained remarkable headway. The area was filled with goods of the popular grocery, fruit and confection kind, with other materials including boxes, cardboard containers and other kinds of a sort that fed the flames.

The firemen directed their attention promptly to the burning cellar, chopping their way into dark areas without lights and locating points of venting in their attack. These lines were plenty and the pressure adequate, and the fire was confined for the most part to the cellar area.

The fruit store on the corner was damaged by the flames that had to work its way into the upper floors. The floor burned through, and some of the flames swept out of the front windows and crept through the ceiling into the quarters above the chain of stores, but the firemen kept the spread well in hand and at no time was the block in great danger after the fire-eaters had the burning area surrounded by water streams and chemicals.

So quickly did the fire spread from the basement at the early start, however, that heavy smoke shot rapidly through all sections of the four or five stories on the immediate corner and swirled up the tenement stairs to the bedrooms above where three families live. All of the tenants were asleep when the fire broke out and at least four of the people who later were rescued had no time to find any outer clothing or find an exit that wasn't filled with smoke from the fire below.

The situation appeared to be critical, windows were flung open and the frightened tenants screamed for help. The work of both the police and the firemen was unexcelled.

The occupants of the tenements over the store structures included the families of George Stamatiou, Christos Fraxaratos and Constantine Vurgaropoulos. Nine children were included in the number of tenants that were rescued either by the firemen or police or men in the crowd drawn by the alarm of fire.

The building at the corner of Dummer and Market streets, or at least the upper part of it, is one of the oldest structures in Lowell. Many years ago it stood but one and one-half stories high and was used as a corporation boarding house at one time. It has numerous historical values, according to lovers of local antiquarian matters of ancient building lore in old time Lowell.

Among the occupants of the block, which is the property of Dionysios A. Sakellarios, a well known and prosperous Lowell Greek-speaking citizen who is engaged in the general business of real estate and other lines of activities, were Sokoritis Brothers, fruit and confectionery dealers, at 275 Market street, corner of Dummer; Yanco Gablats, grocer, 374 Market street; John Mekras, "Marathon Lunch," 310 Market; Constantine Vurgaropoulos, 363 Market street, and Mr. Sakellarios, real estate, 360 Market street; Polezola Georgeopoulos, coffee house at 365 Market street; and Sakellarios & Kosantis, bakers, at 35 Dummer street. The store formerly occupied by Joseph Harvey, plumber, at No. 372, was vacant.

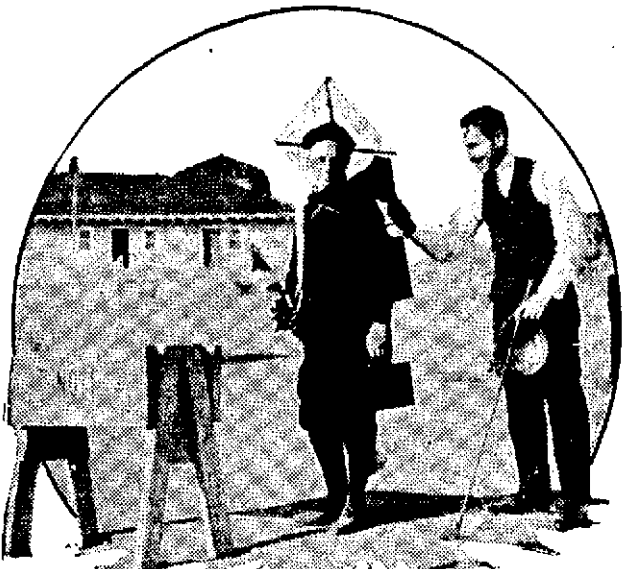

The insurance on the building is carried by the firm of Norcross & Leighton, Central street.

DODGE CAR FIT ALL YEAR ROUND

Mr. Dan O'Dea, president of Lowell Motor Mart Co., says: "The behavior of Dodge Bros. motor car on zero days is a fair example of its fitness the year round. You turn the switch, step on the button and the motor starts without undue noise or delay. As spring days approach, the demand for Dodge Bros. touring cars mount swiftly. Dodge Bros. one problem, at present is not how many touring cars they can sell, but how many they can build. Never was public approval of Dodge Bros. product more obvious and never was it more richly deserved. Improvements, rarely spoken of but constantly being made, have brought the car to a state of perfection which can only be described as remarkable."

MISCHA ELMAN'S LARGE REPERTOIRE

The layman would be surprised if he were faced with the necessity of memorizing ten or fifteen pieces of poetry, and even the average fine musician finds it quite impossible to keep up a repertoire numbering more than 25 or 30 pieces that he can play at a moment's notice. How, then, is it possible for the big artists like Mischa Elman, who comes to the Auditorium on March 15, to retain 200 or even more solos in their mind? There is, of course, no way to explain it. Genius cannot be understood. Mischa Elman, for instance, has at his disposal no less than 22 concertos, 35 sonatas, 75 concert numbers with either orchestra or piano, and 112 smaller pieces such as encore numbers and the like. This represents his actual working material, the works that he can and does play offhand from memory. Tickets for Elman's recital are on sale at Stelmert's.

BILLS ON MUNICIPAL FINANCE

Before the legislature at the present time is a number of bills submitted by the commission on municipal expenditures and taxation. These bills would effect many changes in the present laws regulating public expenditures, systems of assessment and taxation, the borrowing of money by municipalities and various other matters intended to bring revenue to cities and towns and indirectly to the state. One of the bills provides that the commissioner of corporations and taxation shall proceed against tax-collectors who have uncollected taxes of two years or more outstanding. On recommendation of the commissioner the attorney-general will proceed against the collector for non-performance of duty and to recover the amount due from his bond. If in the opinion of the commissioner, any such taxes should be abated, he may order such abatement as the law directs. If such a law were on the statute books it would certainly cause the tax collectors to clean up the old accounts more promptly than has been their custom.

Another bill provides that upon petition of 10 per cent of the registered voters of a city, and not more than 500 voters, special commissions to investigate city administrations and the financial condition of such cities may be appointed by the governor. If that measure were enacted it would be practically certain that every administration would be investigated by a commission chosen by the governor. Such a law would be an unwarranted interference with the affairs of cities unless the condition of their management called for such radical action. As a result of political intrigue, this law would be invoked in cases where no such step was necessary.

Another measure coming from this commission provides that a tax of 3 cents a gallon shall be levied upon all gasoline used for motor vehicle propulsion, 50 per cent of the net revenue derived therefrom to be distributed among the cities and towns, and the balance to be retained by the state. Governor Cox is strongly in favor of this tax and claims that it would provide the revenue necessary to improve the state highways and keep them at all times in good condition. Some of the motorists are opposed to this tax, feeling that the price of gasoline is likely to advance from other causes, and that this tax would add to the burden. The commission has also admitted a bill providing for a poll tax of $2 for women, to be assessed in the same manner as for men. On this measure a minority report of dissent was submitted by one of the members and it is probable that the measure will meet vigorous opposition in both the senate and house.

Still another bill provides that mayors of cities shall have sole power to initiate loans. In some cases such a law might be all right, but the city council should at least have the final word on voting to borrow money. If the council is the legislative body and the mayor merely the executive, it would seem inconsistent to give the mayor the power of initiation, so that in the matter of borrowing he could nullify the legislative power of the city council. In all probability the majority of the members of the council in every city is fully as competent and as reliable, individually, to pass upon such matters as is the mayor. For that reason, as well as for the legal inconsistency of the proposition, it should be defeated.

Among the recommendations of the commission are several that, if enacted into law, would be a great improvement over present conditions. It is not probable that more than half the measures admitted will be adopted, but from the list the legislature can collect perhaps half a dozen that should be enacted as providing improved methods of handling the important questions of municipal finance and taxation.

THE "PENN" COAL BILL

Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts sees the urgent need of regulating the production and sale of coal, as many other citizens of the country do. There is a bill before the Pennsylvania legislature, to empower the public utilities commission of Pennsylvania to regulate the production, distribution and sale of coal "within the state." Senator Walsh believes that the passage of this bill would have far-reaching effects, and explains the situation that confronts the legislators in Pennsylvania today as follows:

"The passage of this bill would benefit Massachusetts too, as we are dependent, of course, upon Pennsylvania for our anthracite coal supplies. It would benefit us particularly in time of shortage in the empowering of the public utilities commission of Pennsylvania under the legislation proposed to prevent profiteering at the mines and to establish quality standards so that 'fire-proof' coal could not be dumped upon our markets in the guise of high grade coal when we are most in need of fuel."

It has long been known that coal is sold at the mines for fairly low prices per ton in the first place, but is purchased and re-sold in the "wholesale" channels for double a fair "first" price before leaving Pennsylvania, and then sometimes adulterated before being sold again to retail dealers at still higher prices. Before it reaches Lowell, coal is sometimes "priced" so high that twenty dollars a ton retail has been the rule on some lots of even very poor coal, as our citizens know.

Senator Walsh believes that if Pennsylvania honestly regulates the coal industry at the mine and eliminates so far as possible the "independents," many of whom are simply coal-buyers in the business of vending coal on paper only at profits that are not actually earned, though easily won, there will be cheaper anthracite coal on sale in Lowell and other New England cities next season.

UNCLE SAM IN NO HURRY

Washington advises announce that while marked progress is being made toward solution of the "Russian problem" by other nations, involving prospective recognition of the soviet government, our state department is in no hurry to be the first. The fact that the soviet are now ready to recognize the sanctity of contracts and treaties, is not everything required to weld new old friendships. To be sure American interests are taking advantage of trade opportunities offered in Russia and this is a very natural thing to do.

Diplomacy follows closely in the path of trade, or should, and the possibilities of adjusting our relations with the "new Russia" may be considered fairly promising. Some members of congress are rather jubilant over the prospects for a resumption of relations between the U. S. A. and Russia, but the fact that the over-zealous and vigilant Senator Borah has received an invitation to

TWO LEADING DISEASES

In the latest bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company is the announcement that this company paid out $22,600,000 in death claims, in 1922. The notable fact in connection with this is that 70 per cent of it was for deaths that might have been prevented or postponed for a considerable time. In this respect the company has a keen interest in the promotion of public health and measures for the prevention or suppression of disease. Of the amount paid out the sum of $6,700,000 was disbursed on account of deaths from tuberculosis, and heart disease claimed an amount almost equally large in $6,659,000. The company's medical experts predict that next year the largest amount will be paid for heart disease, so rapidly is this disease, gaining upon the white plague. It seems that the wear and tear of our struggle for existence in addition to indulgence in strong drink and immoral vice is rapidly increasing the number of cases of heart disease.

ENGLAND IN BRAZIL

We are informed in foreign news dispatches that an endeavor is to be made in the near future to settle or "colonize" 10,000 British families in Brazil. England is ever ready to spread her people, or those who are willing to be spread, over the face of the earth where it will do England the most good, generally speaking. But the project must be talked over with the Brazilian government officials first, it seems.

No wonder England longs to participate in some of the glorious profits to be found in the rich lands of Brazil the prolific. A million acres of agricultural land are ready for the production of cotton, cocoa, sugar, tobacco, rubber, coffee and cattle breeding, and the mineral wealth of the region selected by the would-be British colonists is yet to be fully explored.

STREET WORK PLANNED

We note that the Board of Public Service has adopted the program for street work for the present year as outlined by City Engineer Kearney. That means that the work of permanent street improvement will continue and that in addition all necessary repairs will receive attention.

The Board of Public Service stands in the light of a hold-over from the former administration, and as a creation of a former charter without being formally endorsed or adopted by the present city council. It would be a graceful thing and proper for the city council to pass an ordinance providing for the retention of this board as at present constituted. It would also remove some uncertainty if the nomination of the chairman were confirmed by the council.

The Boston school committee did the right thing in killing an order requiring that every teacher should have a legal residence in that city. Doubtless there are many teachers employed in Boston whose legal residence is in Cambridge or some of the outlying cities. They are thus enabled to live at home by using the Boston Elevated cars morning and evening. But even if they reside in Boston, they should be privileged to maintain their legal home elsewhere if they so desire; and in this matter the school board does not wish to interfere with them. What concerns the board is, whether those teachers do their work well in the class rooms.

IN MEMORY OF GREAT IRISH LEADER

The birthday anniversary of Robert Emmet, noted Irish leader, was observed with a patriotic meeting by members of Clan na Gael yesterday afternoon. The meeting was conducted in A.O.H. hall, Middle street, and was attended by members of the organization from Nassau, Lawrence and Haverhill.

In the early part of the afternoon routine business was transacted and the following committee was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of James Ryan of Lynn, a member of the organization for 30 years: Capt. Francis J. Kierce, Maj. Thomas Daly, State President Patrick J. Mahoney, Michael McDevitt, Michael Kennedy and Patrick J. Ryan.

During the patriotic meeting an address on "The Life and Times of Robert Emmet" was delivered by State President Mahoney and remarks were made by Capt. Kierce and others. The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of "God Save Ireland" and the recital of the pledge of allegiance to the United States.

IRISH NIGHT PLANS

At a meeting in Y.M.C.A. hall yesterday afternoon, final plans were completed for the Irish night, to be conducted under the auspices of the institute in its hall next Friday night. The program will include Irish music, songs and dances by local talent.

Happiness isn't scarce. It just isn't being used much.

"Intelligent" Postman

A rural postman found the usual way-side receptacle for the letters of a distant father, and, being in a hurry, and dutifully trudged a mile to the door to tell them "Your letter box is blown away, but I've put the letter in a hole in the wall."

Seeing Her Home

"What's the matter, old bean?" said Gerald to his friend Percival, who was looking glum. "I've been treated rudely by a girl," was Percival's lugubrious reply. "I met her last night and asked if I might see her home." "And she said—?" "She said certainly—if I took the trouble to look at it."

Another Reason

They had dined and wine, and a guest, with some distance to travel, was pressed to stay the night. He refused. But walking from the door to the garden he changed his mind. "That's right," said his host, "I think you've made a mistake. I thought you were going to stay the night. Not at all, could have managed it easily," said the guest, "it's only that my boots are tight."

The Same Thing

Two children were playing in a garden. "I know a fine game," said Harold. "Let's be admirals and command the ships in the navy." His playmate, a little girl, began to improvise conditions. "All right," she said. "Only I must be the highest admiral and give commands to you." Harold didn't like the idea and said so. The little girl thought for a moment. "Then," she said, "let's play that I'm the admiral's wife. That will do just as well."

Capitol Jokes

United States Representative John J. McSwain's favorite. A colored boy thought he saw a ghost in a graveyard and started to go elsewhere rapidly. He hadn't gone more than a mile or two before a big white man stuck a gun into his ribs and exclaimed: "Whoa, Trustee! Where you going to?" "White man," replied the Ethiopian youth, "I ain't going to nowhere. I'm just going from where I was at!"

Civil War Memories

Senator Hale of Maine was making a tour of the battlefields of the Civil war, and at one place he found an old lady sitting in front of a modest home with a large front and back yard. Politely doffing his hat, he said: "Auntie did they do any fighting near your home during the Civil war?" "Well, sir, I should say they did," she warmly replied. "They fit all over my front yard and they fit all up and down my back yard, and they completely ruined a brand-new awn can for me. War sure is hell, ain't it?"

Absolutely, Mr. West

It was raining cats and dogs, and West stepped into a shop to avoid getting wet. Noticing a counter full of umbrellas, he decided to buy a cheap one and go on his way. "How much is this?" he asked, pointing to one. "Three dollars," said the shopkeeper. "Huh!" grunted West. "I used to be able to buy an umbrella like that for a dollar!" "Yes, I know," replied the clerk, "but you must remember that umbrellas always go up when it rains."

Old-Fashioned Vermont Flowers

I like the good old-fashioned flowers—the dahlia's height and comeliness. The morning glory's happy face. The poppy in her satin dress; But 'mongst the many kinds of flowers—

I've loved in days that come no more—

I believe I like the sturteons best. That grew around the woodhouse door.

When spring would come I used to think—

Then crumpled sturteons seeds and go And plant 'em in the molder earth. And hope and hope and hope they'd grow.

They always grew, they never failed. I often wished I'd planted more— O! I can see them sturteons yet. That grew around our woodhouse door.

Each shoot, it had two jagged leaves. When first it peeped above the ground. But, like the eyes that watched them grow.

Them jagged leaves soon changed to round. 'Twas fun to tend them every day— It's sad to think those days are o'er—

Some kind of cosmos now, I s'pose. Is straggling 'round the woodhouse door.

How scarlet and how red they bloomed. Amongst the green that blanketed their bed. O! you could almost see their souls. The way they held their pretty heads.

I'd not a-splashed a single one. If there had been a thousand more— They had their rights as well as me. The sturteons 'round our woodhouse door.

The orchids of the south I've seen. The lotus, formed of heavenly blue. The flame-vine and the saffron rose. The moon flower and the rattlesnake; But none put all of them to place. The humble flowers I've named before—

The sturteons that were kind enough To bloom 'round our woodhouse door.

Shivering with Berton Brakes

ALABAMA RAIN MONTGOMERY, ALA.

Don't drive through Alabama when it rains! For the valleys, and the hillocks, and the plains. Are a mire of sticky clay. Where you'll stay and stay and stay, Getting deeper every moment for your pains.

Don't drive through Alabama in the rain! Wait for sunny days, or travel on the train! Though I do not care to slam a friendly door in the still Alabama, like the sort of roads no verses can explain.

Don't drive through Alabama in the rain! For they tell me the asylum for insane. Has some people straggling through it. Who imagined they could do it. But are now entirely batty in the brain.

Don't drive through Alabama when it rains! For the things they build for roads are only drains. And the sturdiest of stivers. Was made for swimming rivers. Or exploring wholly bottomless terrains.

Don't drive through Alabama when it rains! Though you put on double sets of heavy chains. You will sink into a bog. Where a fat bull-throated frog. Croaks funereally over your remains.

Wait until the downpour finishes and wanes. And the sky from further deluges. Otherwise you'll linger here. For the rest of your career. Don't drive through Alabama when it rains!

—BERTON BRALEY.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Has it appeared to you how popular Mediterranean people have become with New England people? Perhaps this phase of winter pleasure is not within the limitations of your pocket-book, but there is no harm in sorrowful contemplation of how nice it would be if possible. However, the Mediterranean now is sharing popular favor with some of our people along with California and Florida.

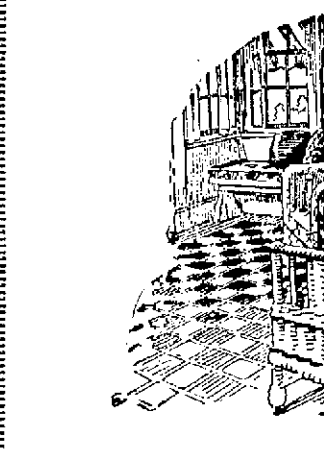

Country roads should not stay muddy very long this spring, according to the prediction of our weather wizard, for there is practically no frost in the ground and as fast as the snow melts the water is taken into the earth and through subterranean channels to the rivers, and the earth dries out quickly. When a heavy frost is in the ground the melting snow cannot be absorbed by the ground and puddles of water and slime caused by slowly thawing earth make travel miserable. The lack of deep frost in the ground was caused by our early snows, coming as they did before any extremely cold weather, and the automobile season will start earlier than it has during the past few winters.

While we city folks were bewailing last week's snow storm, farmers and maple sugar collectors were jubilating over this final dose of nature's fertilizer. To the sap collectors up in Vermont and New Hampshire this last snow storm will add good to their stock, for a snow in March, which makes the sugar sap run. The farmers are also benefited much by a snowfall in March, especially in a year when there is but little frost in the ground. If all other conditions equal the snow conditions, then this year should be a banner year in farm crops and in maple sugar. "It's an ill wind that blows no good."

In line with the story in The Sun last Saturday concerning Andrew Moffatt, of 18 West Meadow road, who has been charged with the instant sign of signal is seen and the necessary action started. A driver starts to pass another vehicle when suddenly a third vehicle appears which may block his path. The driver must decide whether to pass the vehicle or drop back. If his reaction time is slow he may not realize the danger until too late to avert an accident.

The reaction time of some people is very slow and undoubtedly is the cause of many accidents. Does the public safety require that such people be denied drivers' licenses? The Bureau of Public Roads is not yet ready to advocate such a policy, but considers that it should be investigated as a possible safety measure.

A very able suggestion, which if put into effect would eliminate at least a fourth of auto drivers—and the same per cent of pedestrians.

NEW ARTISTS HEARD IN JOINT RECITAL

A comparatively small audience greeted Rudolph Janson La Palma, baritone, and Joseph Maria Sanroma, pianist, who appeared in joint recital in Liberty hall, last evening. Although both artists came to Lowell practically unknown, the program they presented to music-lovers proved of high quality throughout.

Mr. La Palma sang three groups of songs, the first a collection of well known airs; the second a group of modern French songs, and the third, songs in English. The audience was most enthusiastic and applauded each number vigorously.

Mr. Sanroma, who appears to be very young, gave an excellent exhibition at the piano, presenting a certain individuality of expression and variety of shading that resulted in winning commendation. The work of the pianist proved that he has advanced beyond the amateur stage and had much of promise to come.

The program in full was as follows: Caro mio ben.....Giordani
Whenever You Walk.....Handel
Recitativo and Aria.....Mozart
Promessa de mon avenir from La roi de Lahore.....Massenet

Mr. La Palma.....Chopin
Allegro maestoso.....Schubert
Scherzo molto vivace.....Paganini
Preludio—Presto non tanto, Mr. Sanroma.

Pourqu'il.....Tchaikovsky
Invitation au voyage.....Duparc
J'ai pleuré on rêve.....Hug
La procession.....Cesar Franck

Mr. La Palma.....Chadwick
Crescendos Fantastiques.....Padewski

Polonaise in E major.....Liszt
Mr. Sanroma.

Sacrament.....MacDermid
Cargoes.....Tom Doherty

A Dream.....Grieg
Mr. La Palma.

INTERESTING ADDRESS ON "THE IRISH BROGUE"

The American Irish Historical society held a meeting yesterday afternoon in Memorial hall with Vice-President Hugh J. Molloy presiding. William E. Reilly, an instructor at the State Normal school gave an interesting address on "The Irish Brogue—Our Heritage."

Mr. Reilly claimed the Irish brogue is the correct English as it was spoken in the time of Queen Elizabeth, and he cited several authors to prove his claim. He stated that the Irish had preserved the old pronunciation of the language and the manner of speech right up to the present time. He also spoke of a certain broadness of speech that is characteristic of the Irish as being very common among the people of Elizabeth's time. His concluding statement was that the best English in the world is spoken not in England but in Dublin.

Plans for the banquet to be held next Thursday in Memorial hall were discussed and the committee reported that only 30 more tickets could be sold for the banquet as the seating capacity of the hall is limited. Two speakers have been secured for this event, Governor Flynn of Rhode Island and E. Mark Sullivan, a prominent Boston orator. Governor Flynn is a graduate of Holy Cross and in his honor a table will be reserved for graduates of his school. Since his inauguration as governor, he has received much publicity because of his drives against the gambling and liquor element in his state, and at the present time he has succeeded in driving the majority of the road-houses and gambling-joints out of business. E. Mark Sullivan, who has been introduced as Lowell resident, has spoken here on several occasions. He will bring an interesting message from Mayor James M. Curley of Boston.

James C. Reilly, local attorney, will be the toastmaster of the banquet, and Mayor John J. Donovan has been invited to attend. Rev. Daniel J. Keeler, Ph. D., pastor of St. Peter's church, will give the invocation, and an interesting paper on the early Irish in Lowell will be read by Miss Frances Masterson.

Amongst the electrical workers of the city and to bring them in closer touch with each other. A committee was appointed to conduct a membership drive during the month of March which so far has met with great success.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers embodies an electrical workers' benefit association which offers an exceedingly low rate, owing to the nature of the work an electrical worker does, he is obliged to pay a much higher rate than the ordinary mechanic for insurance in private companies.

It is hoped that all electrical workers in Lowell and vicinity will take advantage of the low rate of initiation in the brotherhood before the expiration of the charter opening, which will be April 1.

Meetings are held in Electrical Workers hall on the top floor of the Odd Fellows building, every Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Stay in Florida Not All Play —Keeps in Touch with White House

PAIM BEACH, Fla., March 12.—As a houseboat pioneer, carrying President and Mrs. Harding and their vacation companions steamed slowly southward today indications increased that the stay of the chief executive in the southern Florida city would not be all play and no work.

Although the president has been devoting himself mostly to rest and recreation since he left Washington a week ago today, definite periods each day have been set aside to attend to official business. Telegraphic correspondence has been maintained with the White House and at each important stop such as that made here Saturday and yesterday, much official mail has been sent aboard the houseboat.

SUPREME COURT DENIES

PETITIONS FOR REVIEWS

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Rejecting a petition for review, the supreme court announced today that it would not determine at this time whether the federal courts have jurisdiction to try Roland R. Pothier, indicted for the murder of Major Alexander R. Crankhite at Camp Lewis, Wash., in 1918. The court held that the appeal should have been to the circuit court of appeals and the case was referred to the first circuit court of appeals.

STEAL $1500 WORTH OF MEN'S CLOTHING

BOSTON, March 12.—Thieves stole $1500 worth of men's clothing from the King Clothing Co.'s store on Hanover street, over the week-end, it was discovered today. They cut through a barred door and probably backed a truck up to the building to remove the loot.

LABORITES UP IN ARMS

Rank and File Protests Action of Leaders in Hobnobbing With Royalty at Dinner

LONDON, March 12 (by the Associated Press).—The rank and file of the labor electorate is disgusted with and suspicious of the idea of laborite members of parliament hobnobbing with royalty at the recent Anster dinner, judging from the large number of letters addressed to the Herald, the labor party's official paper. Extracts from these communications are published today.

The writers want to know what it all means and suspect that the incident has "a political significance and will have far-reaching results, putting the laborites in a false position." The letters expressed that the dinner represented an attempt "of the ruling classes to silence discontent either by reconciling the leaders to the state or by dividing them."

POLICE WARN AGAINST BOGUS CHECK WORKER

The chief of police of Hartford, Ct., has sent out a warning to police departments throughout New England and to merchants in the same district, especially lumber dealers, to watch out for a clever check forger who has operated in several sections of the northwestern United States under the names of M. M. Seeger, William H. Geer, Robt. S. Weed and R. R. Wade.

The man is about 55 years old, five feet, six inches tall, weighs about 140 pounds, smooth face, yellow complexion and has dark hair lined with gray.

When operating in Hartford he was always dressed well and was a fluent talker.

His mode of operation is to call on a lumber dealer and order a bill of goods, paying with a certified and countersigned check, he using a stamp for the certification and countersigning.

A warrant for his arrest has been issued in Hartford, and if a man answering the above description and working in the above manner calls on any local dealer, the dealer is requested to notify the police station at once and endeavor to hold the man until a police officer arrives.

NAMES COMMITTEE TO REPRESENT UNION

George A. Gordon, John Boughton and George P. Bell will act as a committee from the Lowell Municipal Employees' union to wait upon the legislative representatives from this city for the purpose of securing strong support against the Putnam bill, so-called, which is at present before the legislature. The committee was appointed at a special meeting of the union held yesterday afternoon with a large number of members attending.

There was lively debate over the Putnam bill and its purposes, the members referring to what lies at stake in the future of the civil service system in connection with the employment of city laborers. The meeting was opened by Vice President Joseph Hughes, in the absence of Daniel Moynihan, who is kept to his home by illness.

OF KIDNAPPING BOY

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—Angelina Tavano, alias Mary Conklin, today was being held for arraignment on the charge of kidnapping three-year-old Leo Minkin, son of City Judge Leopold Minkin. Boy and nurse maid were found Saturday in Newburgh, whither the girl said she had taken the child because she loved him.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headache, "dullness" and that lax feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lumpy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded, bumpy and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c—Adv.

JACKSON PALMER WINS

CAPTAINCY IN RESERVE

Jackson Palmer, whose home at 121 Fairmount street was destroyed by fire a short time ago, has been appointed a captain in the field artillery section of the officers reserve corps, U.S.A., according to an announcement at local headquarters today.

He plans to retire to his farm at Chester, N. H.

Have You Ever Looked at a Cork?

TAKE a piece of cork in your hand and examine its qualities. Rub it, feel it, press it. Cork is tough. It does not abrade easily.

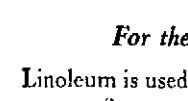

Throw this piece of cork on the floor and it will rebound. Cork is elastic. It has springy qualities. When compressed it returns to its original shape.

Drop it in water and it floats. Cork is light. Stop a bottle with it and it will confine liquids for years. Cork is waterproof, and nonabsorbent. Cut a piece in two and you will see that it is compact and solid.

How cork is used in linoleum

Cork in powdered form is a basic material used in making linoleum. It combines perfectly with oxidized linseed oil, from which linoleum gets its name.

Here is what we mean by "oxidized" linseed oil: When this liquid is exposed to heat and air, a solid, tough film forms on top. That is a simple form of oxidation. When this tough substance is mixed with powdered cork the two blend together naturally. Pressed on a strong burlap back, you have what is known as linoleum.

For linoleum, cork is ground as fine as flour

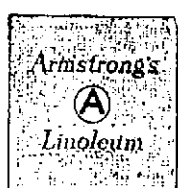

For the tread of many feet

Linoleum is used as a floor; it has all the qualities that a good floor should have. It is durable, smooth, and resilient. It is restful to stand or walk on. It is warm, waterproof, and non-absorbent.

There is another advantage to linoleum. It is produced in many colors and patterns. Armstrong's Linoleum is made in plain colors, in Jasper or two-tone effects, in carpet inlaid, tile inlaid, and in many different printed designs. Also linoleum rugs, printed and inlaid, for people who live in apartments or houses on short leases.

When properly laid, a permanent floor

We have told you all these things about linoleum so that you will not by any possibility confuse it with other floor coverings that are not made of cork, linseed oil, and strong burlap. When properly laid (not tacked), Armstrong's Linoleum is not merely a floorcovering, but becomes a permanent floor, one that with occasional waxing and polishing should look as good as new for many years, and one that will never splinter or need costly refinishing.

A room of light and color to which the polished, waxed linoleum floor adds charm

How to lay linoleum over wooden floors

In summer wood floors expand. In winter they dry out and contract, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builder's deadening felt which has been previously glued to the bare floor boards. The felt takes up expansion and contraction and gives you a permanent, waterproof, good-looking floor. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retinning. Such a floor is smooth and light

How to tell genuine linoleum

All genuine linoleum has a burlap back that you can see. It does not tear easily. When you see the Circle "A" trademark on this burlap back, you can be sure you are getting the genuine Armstrong's Linoleum, made by the Armstrong Cork Company.
